Dedication . . .

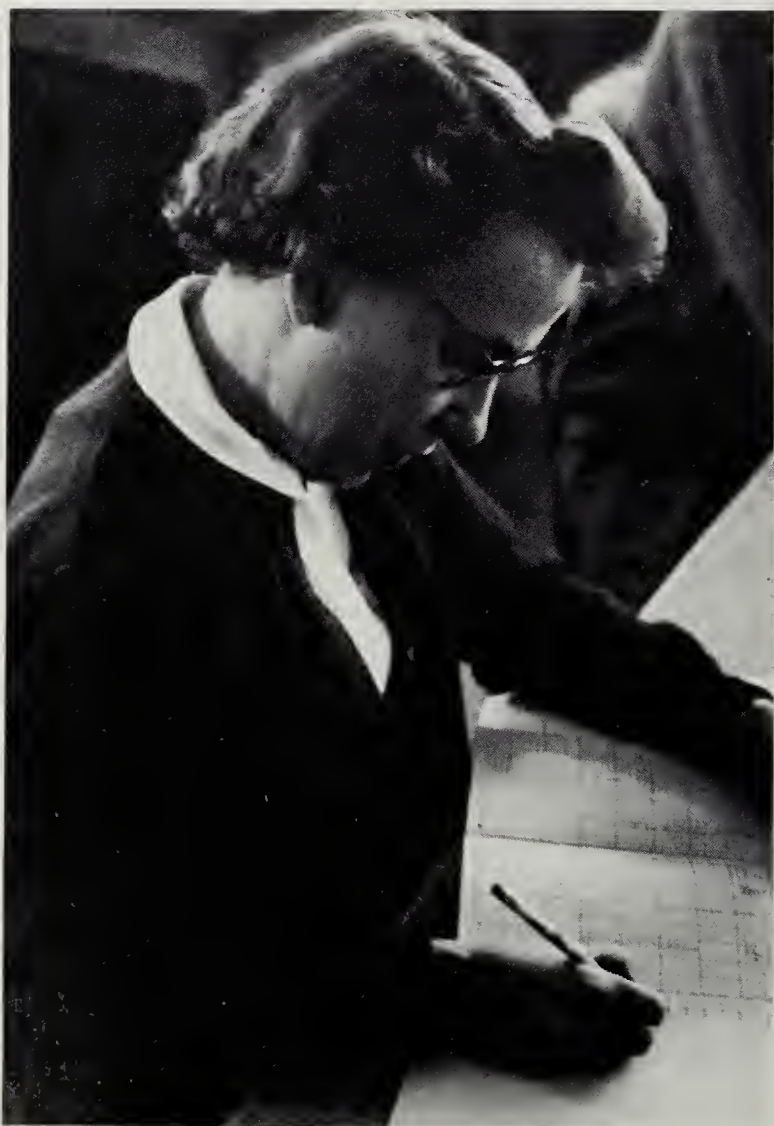

She's not large—only about five feet, two inches, but Mrs. Freeda Akers is a bundle of energy. She has been a sponsor of the class of '64 from the beginning, when the present seniors were green eighth graders. And she is this year the chairman of the ten class sponsors.

It's not necessarily an easy job. She has been called on to do many things: type play programs, help choose invitations, even straighten a boy's tie. All this and she still finds time to be a fine teacher in the Business Education Department.

How does she do it? We said she had energy; but she has more. She has charm and humor and industry and efficiency and patience. Need we say more? Only that she is our teacher, our counselor, our friend.

Mrs. Freeda Akers

Mrs. Akers spends one period in the main office, helping to see that everything runs smoothly.

After long hours of planning and rehearsal, there's nothing else to do but sit down and enjoy the Senior Class Assembly.

. . . Foreword

1963-'64—this was the year that was for 1900 students, eighty teachers, and an entire community of parents and friends of education. It was an important year, a significant year, a learning year. It was a year of fun when friends met at dances, plays, and games, of responsibility when an honor code was instituted, of scholarship when more names than ever before appeared on the honor roll, and of tragedy when a president was assassinated.

Here, within these pages of the HALISCOPE, the staff has tried to portray in words and pictures the classrooms, sports, activities, people, and life of Halifax County High School. We hope that we have captured for you the essence of the year that was 1963-'64.

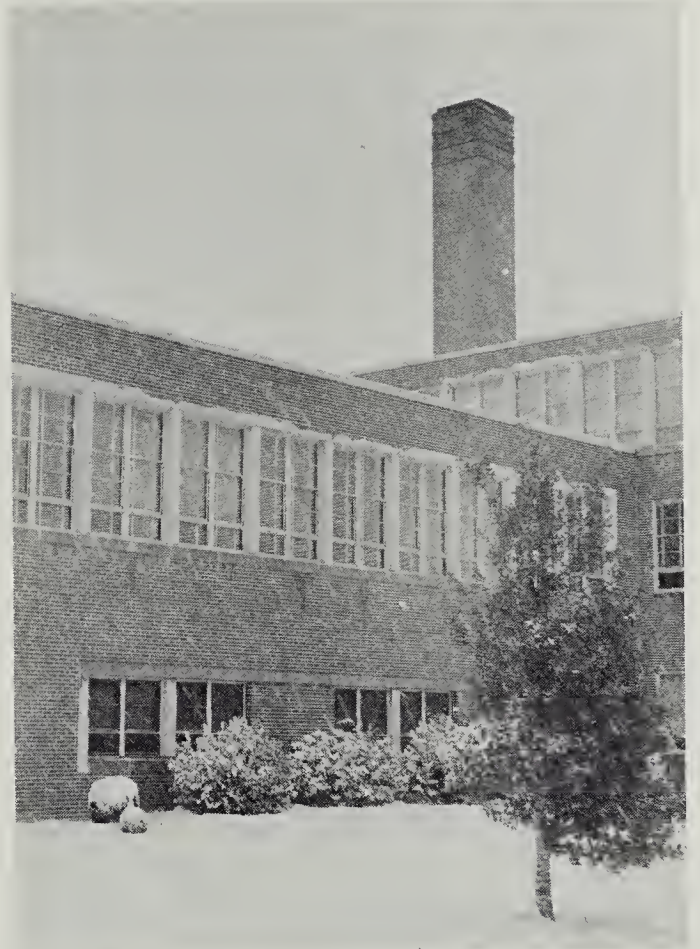

Tommy Elliott and Linda Ferrell look back on Halifax County High and remember the events of the year.

a Lot of Decorating to Make a Prom

It was a starry night on May 1 as juniors and seniors and their guests danced to the prom theme, "Stairway to the Stars." The Junior Class carried out this theme by building a long, winding stairway leading up to twinkling stars behind a blue-draped sky. Senior girls in the figure emerged from the stars and down the stairway where they were met by their escorts.

In the lobby, a mural covered the display case and an ivy-covered balcony with wrought iron railing extended in a semi-circle eleven feet onto the floor. Couples entered the prom itself through double French doors.

A huge reflector on the background of the sky scattered different hues on the dancers, while aluminum plates on the walls furthered the reflecting mood. The Junior Class along with Mrs. Rebecca McKinney and Mr. Bob Law, head of the decorations, were frantic at the last minute about a center-piece. A small pool surrounded by palm plants with a water nymph in the center served the purpose well.

One of the major difficulties faced by the Junior Class in decorating the gym was the shortage of blue material for a sky. After draping the sky once, juniors had to take it down and hang the old cheese-cloth sky above it.

The Dazzlers from Lynchburg, a real show band, added much to the prom. On a white platform surrounded by four Greek columns, they played everything from soft, orchestral music to the latest Beatle music.

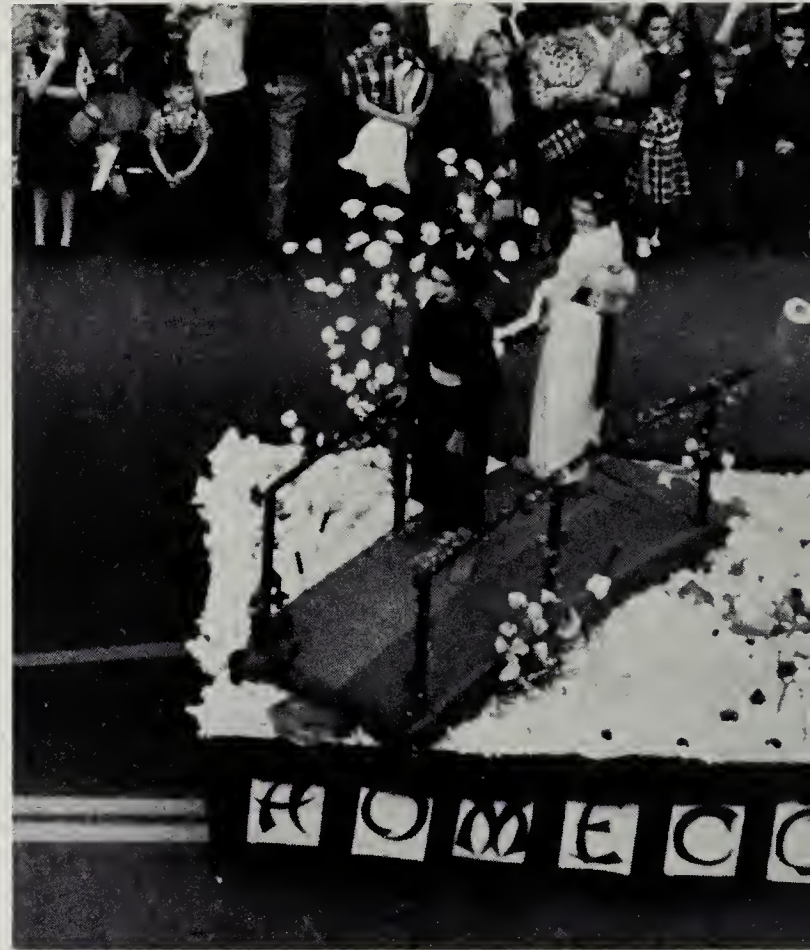

Parade, Beauty Queen, Game, Highlighted

"Homecomingitis" hit students hard this year, October 25. Excitement reached a peak with the parade in the afternoon and the game that night with Northern Durham. A dance, using the theme "Harvest Moon" followed the game which the Comets won, 21-20.

The Homecoming Queen, Margaret Murphy, and her court consisting of Janis Gravitt, Karen Dyer, Nancy Davis, Jane Bebbler, and Carol Trope rode in the South Boston parade and were presented at the dance. Queen Margaret, elected by the student body, was crowned by Principal J. Marshall Swanson during halftime festivities. She was also given a football autographed by all the members of the team.

A unique feature of Homecoming was the designation of the day as "Quiet Day." Everyone was to be especially quiet so that all voices and noise could be saved for the giant pep rally that the cheerleaders and Pep Club staged in the gym during sixth period.

A Japanese garden won first place in the float parade for the Art Club.

'On Stage' is the Call at Assemblies

One of the most thrilling and exciting events in the life of an H. C. H. S. student is his first chance to appear on stage. Although these amateur actors usually appear calm and relaxed behind the footlights, if one were to skip behind stage and observe, he would hear such frantic exclamations as, "Where's my book? What do I say? What's my cue?"

These remarks make the director wonder why she didn't give the parts to the prompter instead of the actors.

But in spite of these frantic moments behind stage, the productions—two full-length plays, one one-act play, and five class assemblies—are extremely rewarding. They present an opportunity for students to meet new people, make new friends, and to have one's chance in the spotlight.

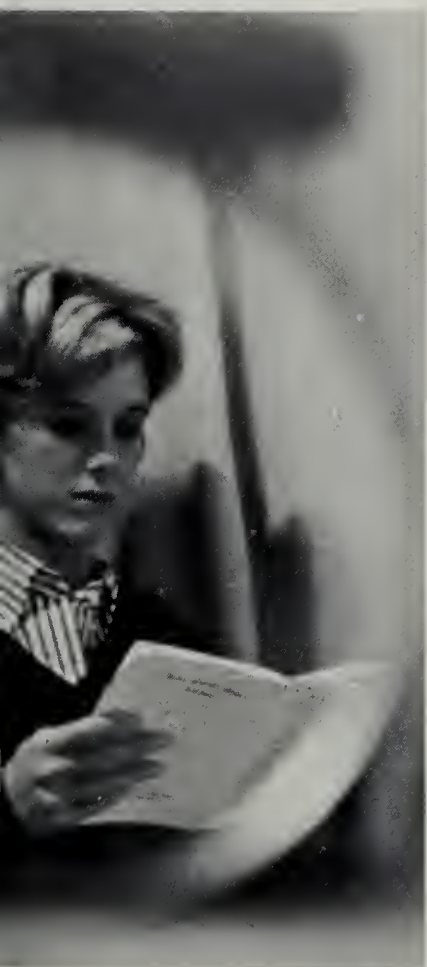

"Well, I certainly think she should watch Romeo," says Lea Spears as Kate the Shrew to Mary T. Vaughan's Portia in the one-act play, "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet."

and Plays

"Well, I don't think that anyone should infringe on their basic rights as individuals," says Mr. Carol, David Priest, to his stage wife, Sandra Carden, in the Spring Production, "Time Out for Ginger."

Political Pot Boils Twice for Students

Elections play an important role in the life of all students. Whether voting for class offices or for S.C.A. officers, each student realizes the importance of his vote.

To run for a class office, a student must be nominated by the S.C.A. representatives of his class. On the other hand, to run for an S.C.A. office, the Student Council president appoints a nominating committee of teachers and students. Other students may run if they are petitioned by fifty students or more. A week of extensive campaigning then begins with voting following on Friday. Around the school, students can note a candidate's interest by his posters, signs, and campaign cards.

The real test comes on Friday with campaign speeches. Here undecided students may choose their candidates by the speeches given. Election returns are announced by the principal at the end of the election day.

Doris Talley, candidate for Junior Class secretary, exclaims, "I'm very good at taking shorthand, because the Good Lord gave me two of them!"

The student body takes active interest in speeches at the S.C.A. elections.

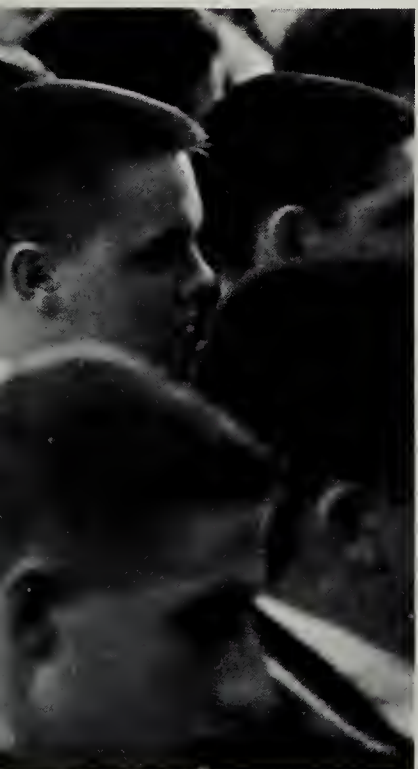

David Dunn, candidate for S.C.A. president, urges the student body to give him their support.

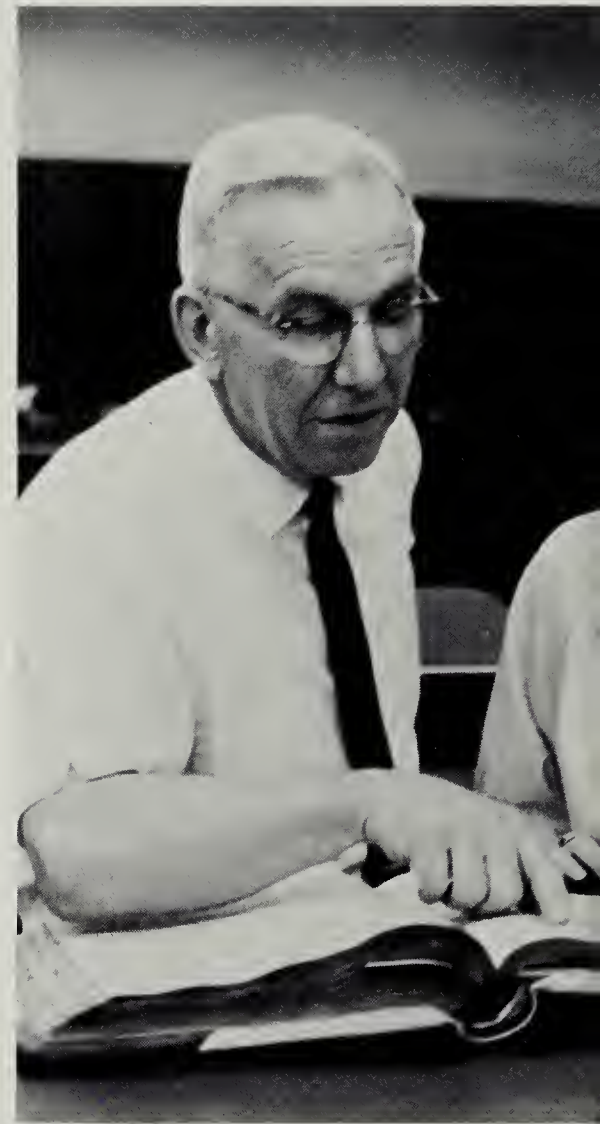

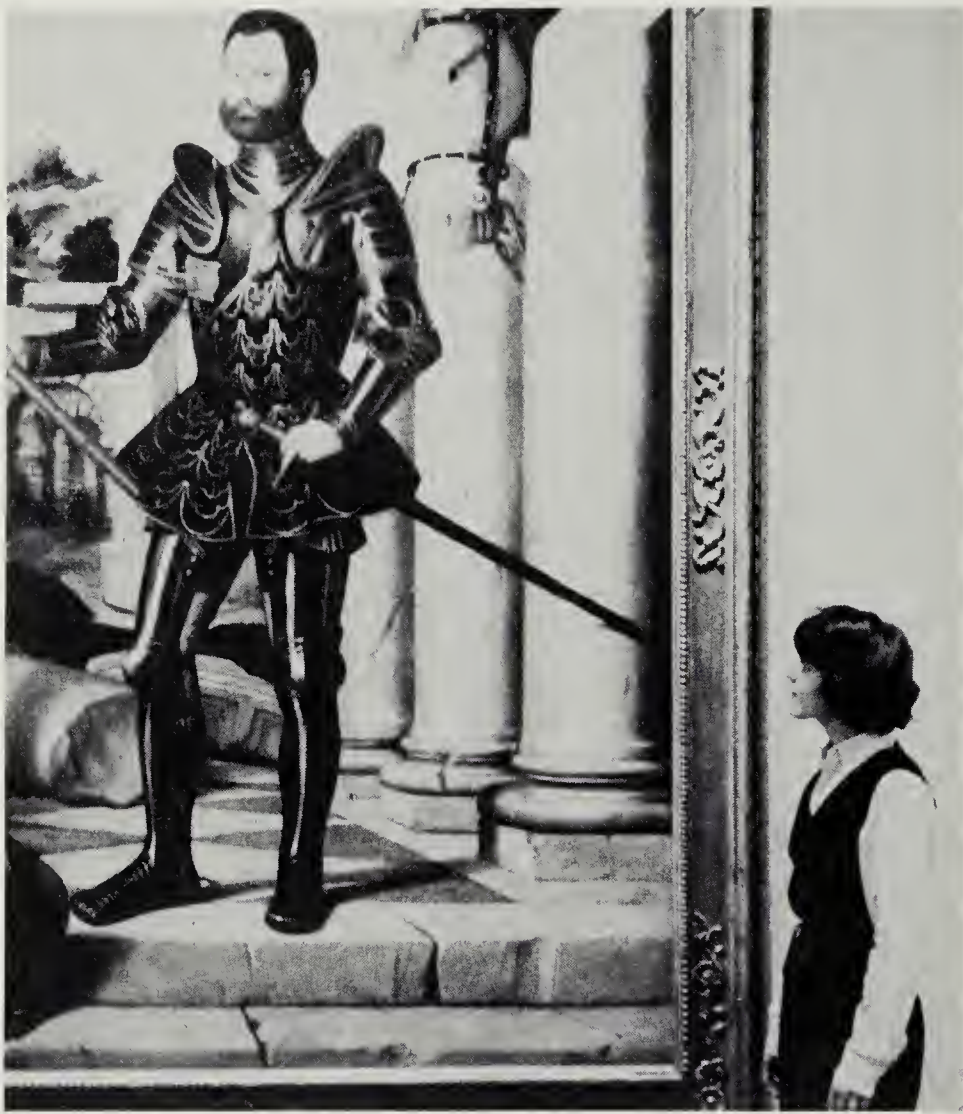

Linda Lovelace and Caroline Osborne remove tape from the floor after the campaigns are over.

Carolyn Powell illustrates the importance of mathematical ability for a candidate for class treasurer.

Asking student support for S.C.A. president, Hap Meeler emphasizes the importance of this job.

Betsy Branum looks at one of the paintings at the North Carolina Museum of Fine Arts.

Trips Provide Sparkle for Learning

C.S.P.A. delegates Bill Holt and Chuck Seabolt read a New York Times in Penn Station while waiting for the long ride home.

Students make many trips throughout the year which range from history and English trips to the C.S.P.A. journalism trip to New York.

Sophomores, seniors, and juniors of the world history classes and U. S. History classes visited Duke University and the University of North Carolina as the studio guests of the television class which they view every day in their own classrooms.

Senior and sophomore English classes boarded four buses and journeyed to Richmond to see the play "Hamlet" at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in March.

The C.S.P.A. convention in New York was attended by juniors of the publications staffs.

The trips this year were most worthwhile because they added extra dimension to classroom atmosphere.

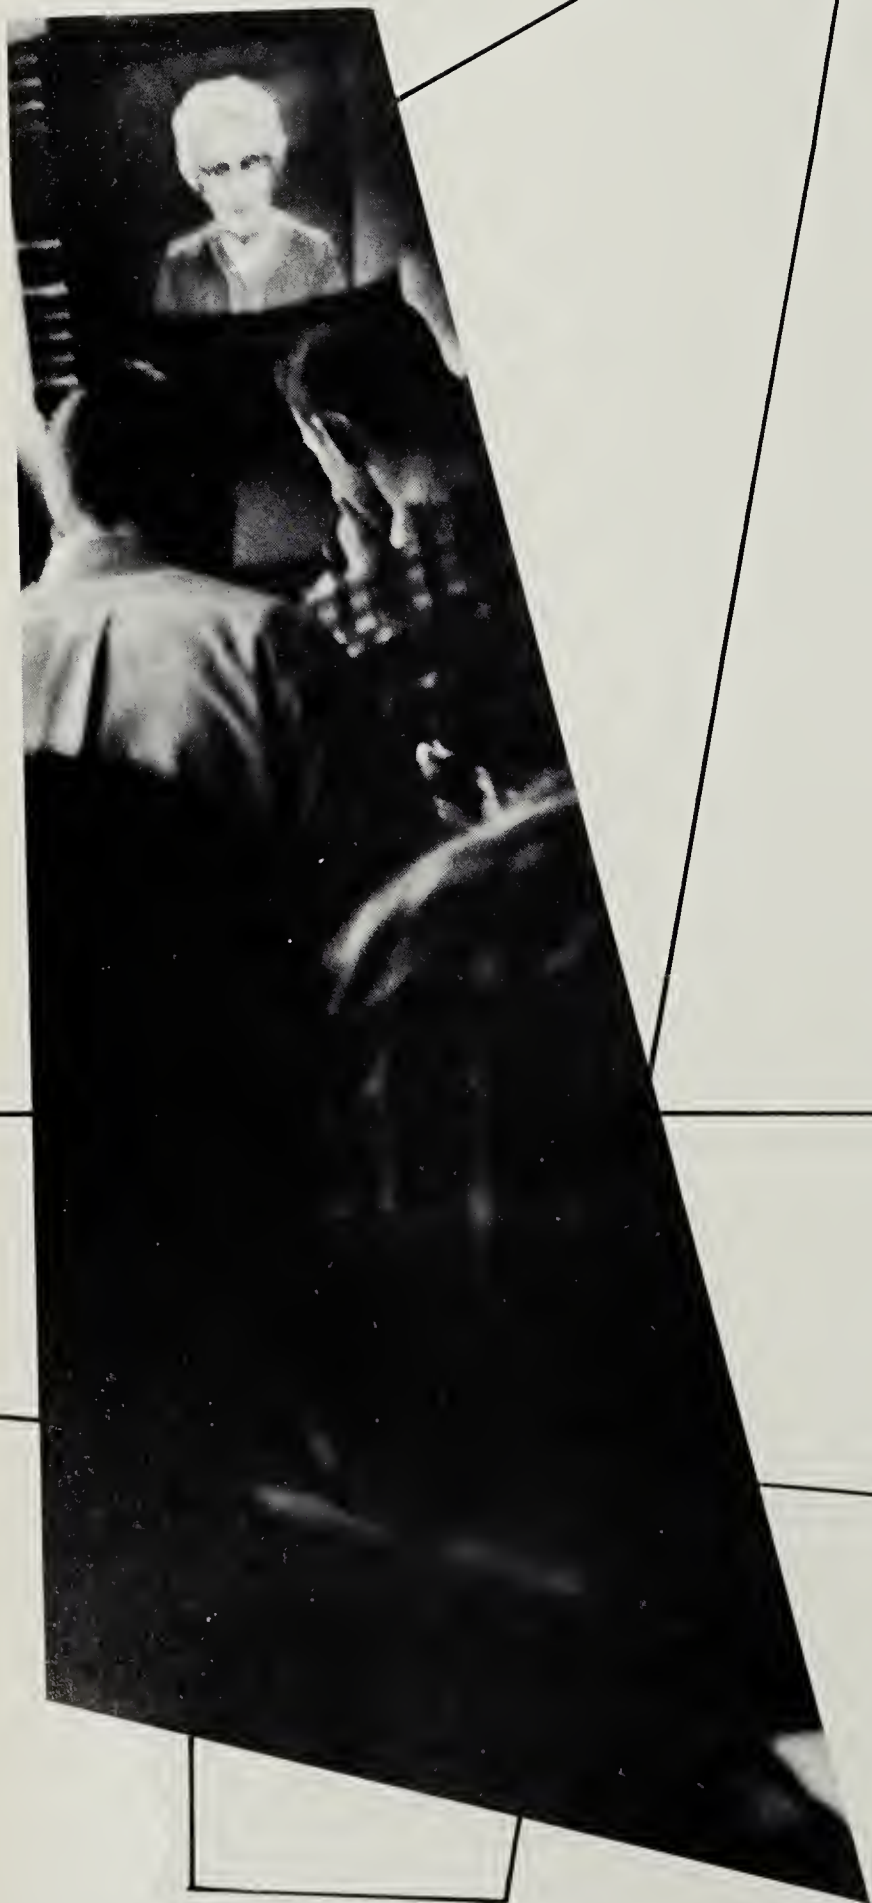

Potricio McDowell, Russell Lindley, and Sammy Wehrenberg look on as the county clerk H. Mason Sizemore shows them records kept at the court house in Halifax.

Marsha Wilkins and Corole Owen order breakfast on the train on their way to the C.S.P.A. convention in New York.

"Oh well, there's always another time," Coach Lennie Riddle exclaimed as the bus broke down after losing the Bluestone track meet.

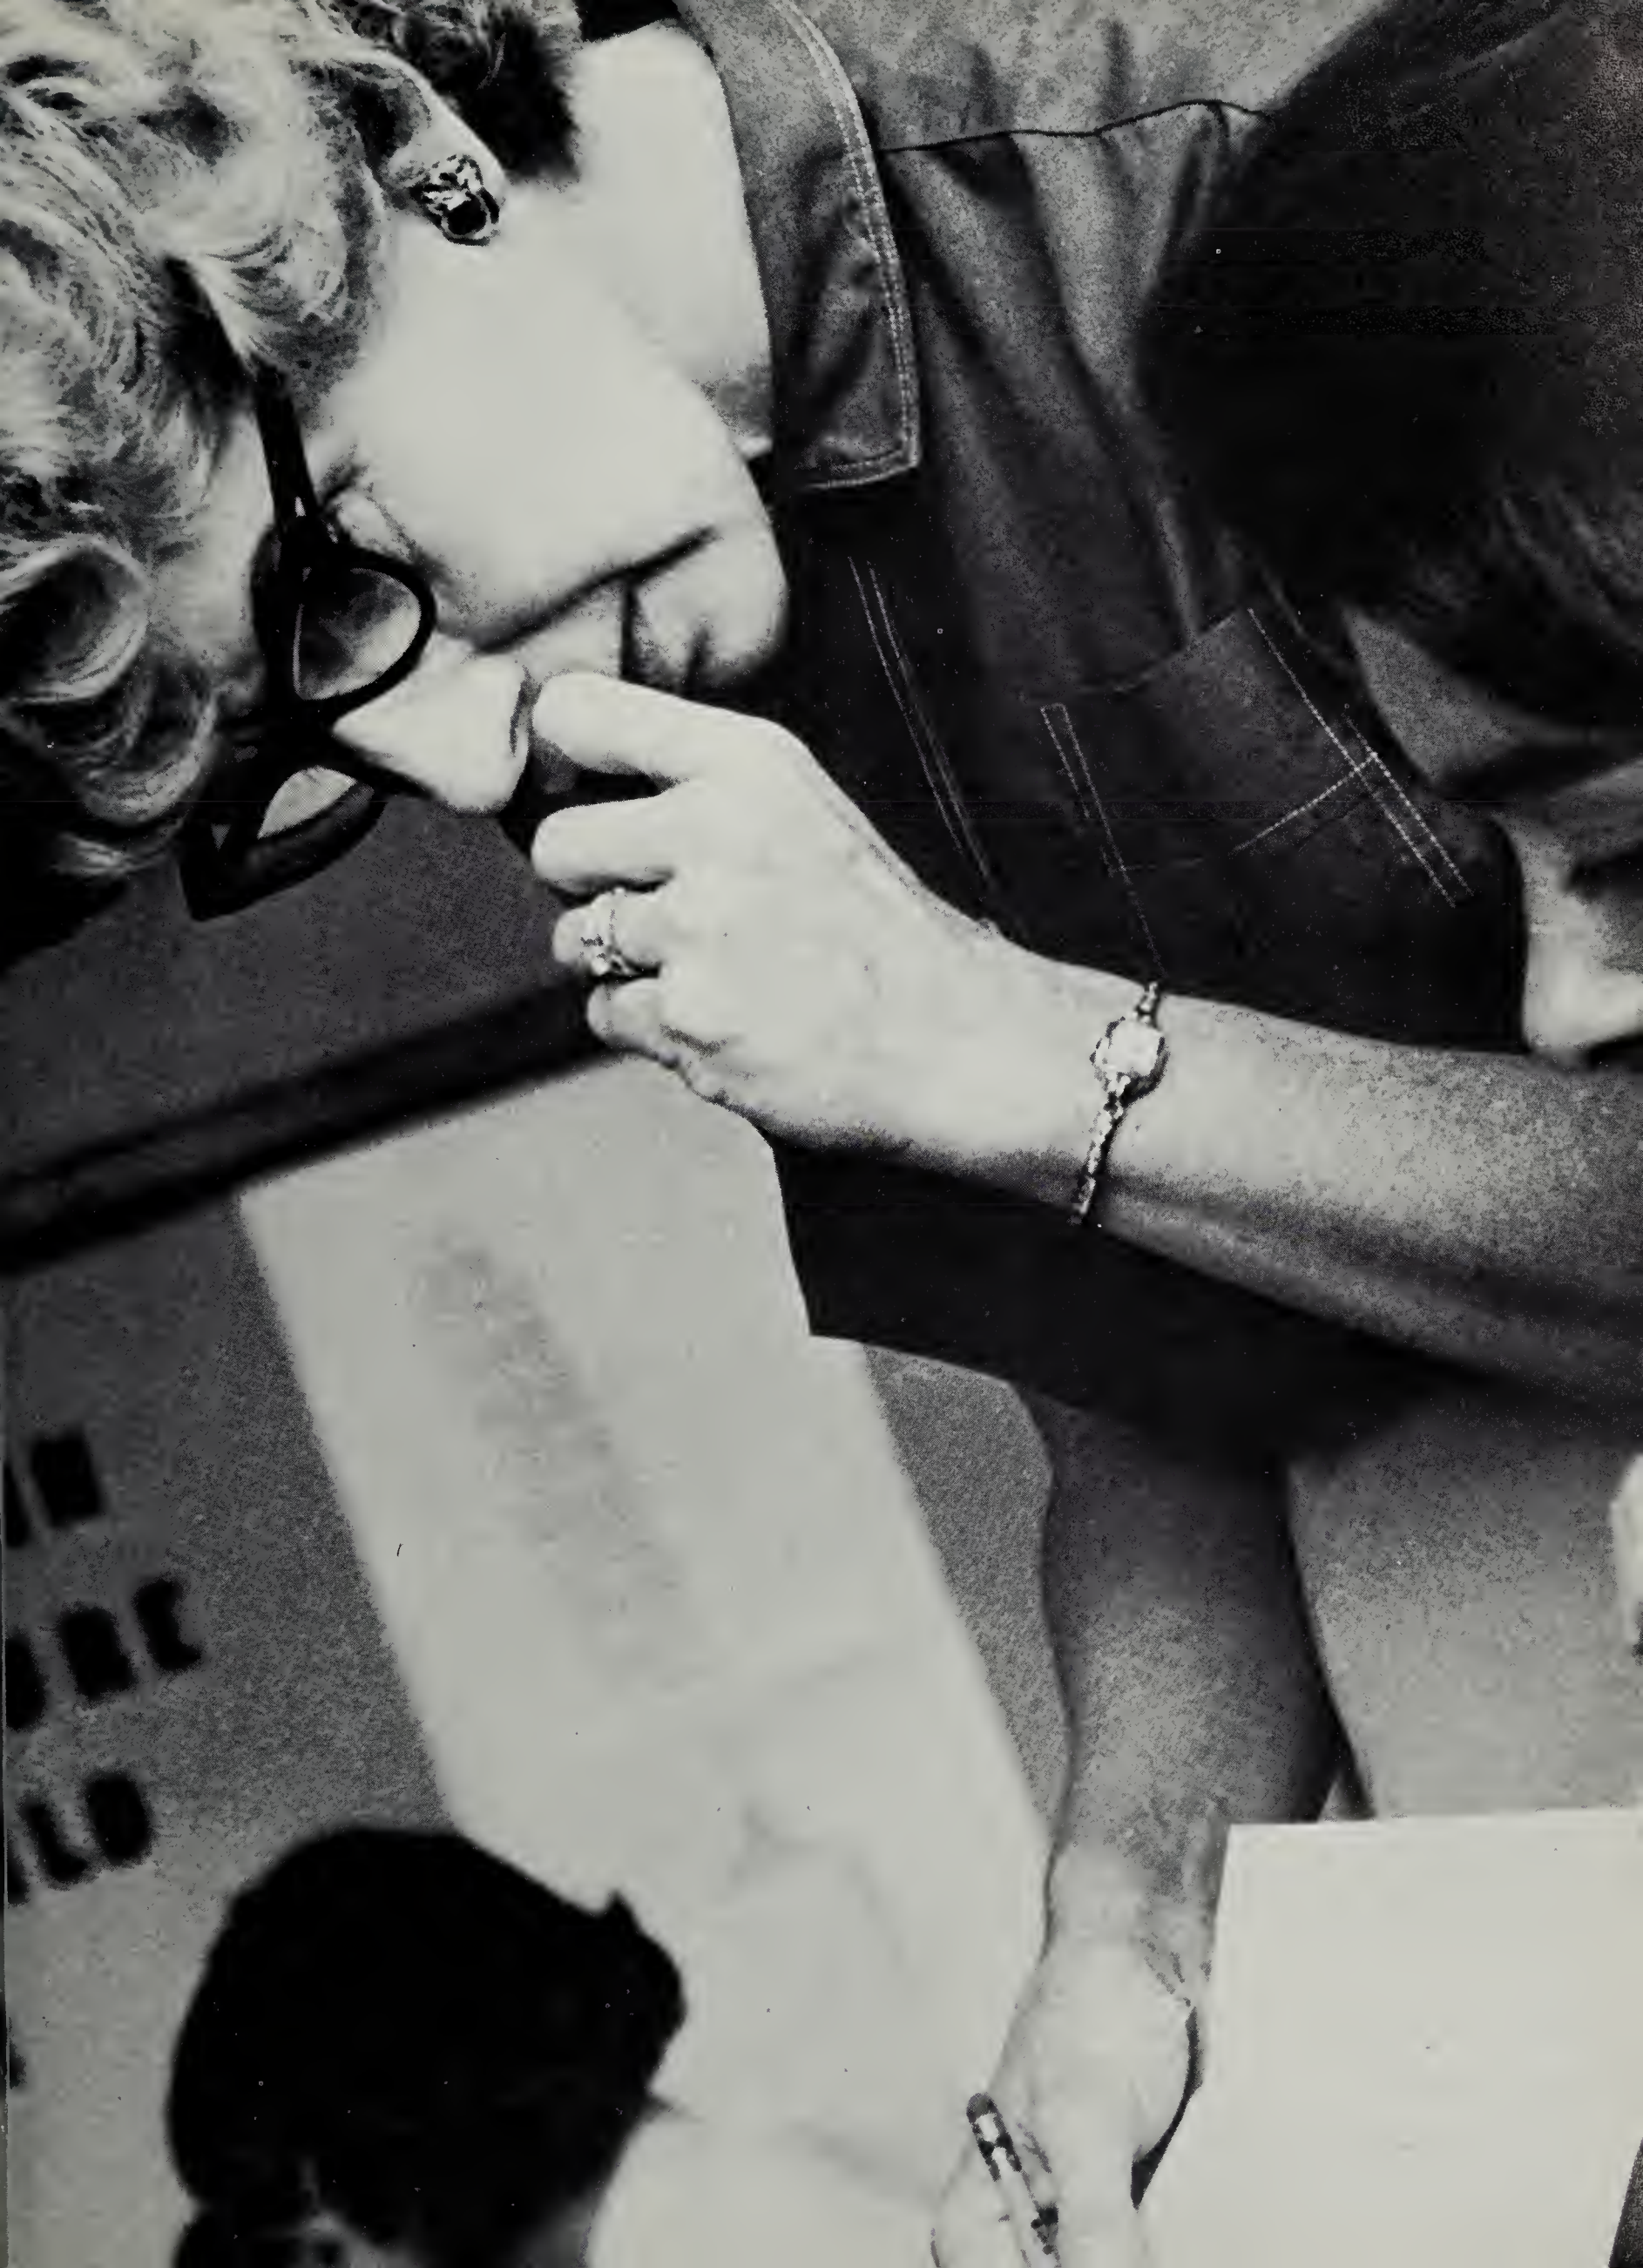

This was the year that was for the administration and faculty: finding new places to fit 1900 students into . . . planning the day's lesson so that pupils would find that learning is fun and challenging . . . attending 8:30 faculty meetings . . . going to the University of Virginia for a reading conference . . . swapping ideas and stories in the teachers' lounge . . . feeling proud and satisfied when a child does well . . . grading reams of papers . . . working far into the night.

Curriculum

Mrs. Rebecca McKinney helps Barbara Crews with a problem in the "new" math.

Mr. R. L. Locy is superintendent of public schools of Halifax County. He holds a B.A. Degree from the University of Richmond and a M.A. Degree from Columbia University.

Director of Instruction Frank Chaffin has a B.A. Degree from Hampden-Sydney College and a M.Ed. from William and Mary.

Mr. Udy Wood is director of transportation and director of maintenance for all the schools of Halifax County. He has a B.S. and a M.A., both from Appalachian State Teachers College.

School Board Personnel Sets Policy

Members of the Halifax County School Board are Mr. T. K. McDowell; Mr. Paul Beatty; Mr. George Smith; Mr. Baxter Wilson; Mr. Henry Hardie, chairman; Mr. Frank Chaffin, director of instruction; Mr. R. L. Lacy, superintendent; Mr. R. W. Armstead; and Mr. C. A. Blane.

Miss Jennie Wagner, Maryville College, A.B. and Appalachian State Teachers College, M.A., is assistant to the principal and advisor to the S.C.A. and the National Junior Honor Society.

During a time out at the annual faculty-varsity basketball game, Principal J. Marshall Swanson confers with Coach Dave Wiedeman.

Principal J. Marshall Swanson is a man who could put to good use twenty-five hours per day. So far he has not found that extra hour, he admits, but he is still looking. Mr. Swanson received both his B.S. and M.S. from the University of Tennessee.

Administration Works for Better School

Mr. William Lowe, an administrative assistant, is in charge of maintenance and bus transportation for H.C.H.S.

In addition to teaching three classes of science, Miss Jane Blackwell is chairman of the Guidance Department.

Agriculture students learned to apply their knowledge by operating machines in the vocational-agriculture shop as well as studying classroom materials. In the shop boys learned the basic fundamentals of arc-welding, tool-fitting, electricity, woodwork, and tractor maintenance. In the classroom they learned proper methods of cultivation and harvesting and the care of farm animals.

Vocational agriculture offers courses to boys in the eighth through the twelfth grades. All students in the department are automatically members of the Halifax County F.F.A. chapter, which is one of the largest in the state of Virginia.

Through the F.F.A., agriculture students took part in the Baby Beef Show, and district and federations contests in forestry, crop judging, livestock, and tractor driving.

Three outstanding agriculture students, Cecil Lacks, Robert Ford, and Danny Stevens represented the Virginia Crop Judging teams at the national F.F.A. convention in Kansas City.

The complete facilities of the Business Department enable students to prepare, while in high school, for a clerical and secretarial career.

Classes open to students this year include Shorthand I and II, Typing I and II, office practice, general business, recordkeeping and bookkeeping.

Shorthand I and II were taken by juniors and seniors. Typing I and II were open to sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors could take general business, while only juniors were eligible for recordkeeping, and only seniors could take bookkeeping.

In shorthand transcription classes, advanced senior typists helped type for the STAR and Haliscope, as well as various other departments.

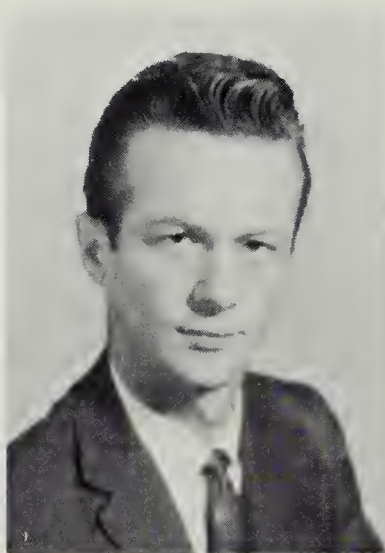

Typing skill is something that can come in handy now and in later life, Joan Glasscock believes.

The Art Department helped students to further develop their creative talent.

In studying the fundamentals of art, special emphasis was placed upon drawing. Students experimented with such techniques as "fresco," which is water color on wet plaster, and water-painting on velvet. Advanced art students did oil painting, while all students made designs and drawings with pen and India ink.

The Music Department is composed of the senior and beginner bands, the Concert Choir and the Ninth Grade Girls' Chorus.

Highlights of the Music Department's year were at Christmas and Easter, when the band and choirs gave seasonal concerts. During the year, they also gave concerts at various elementary schools throughout the county.

For the second year, the band attended the Sun-Fun Festival at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina for three days. Members of the band sold doughnuts in order to raise money for the trip.

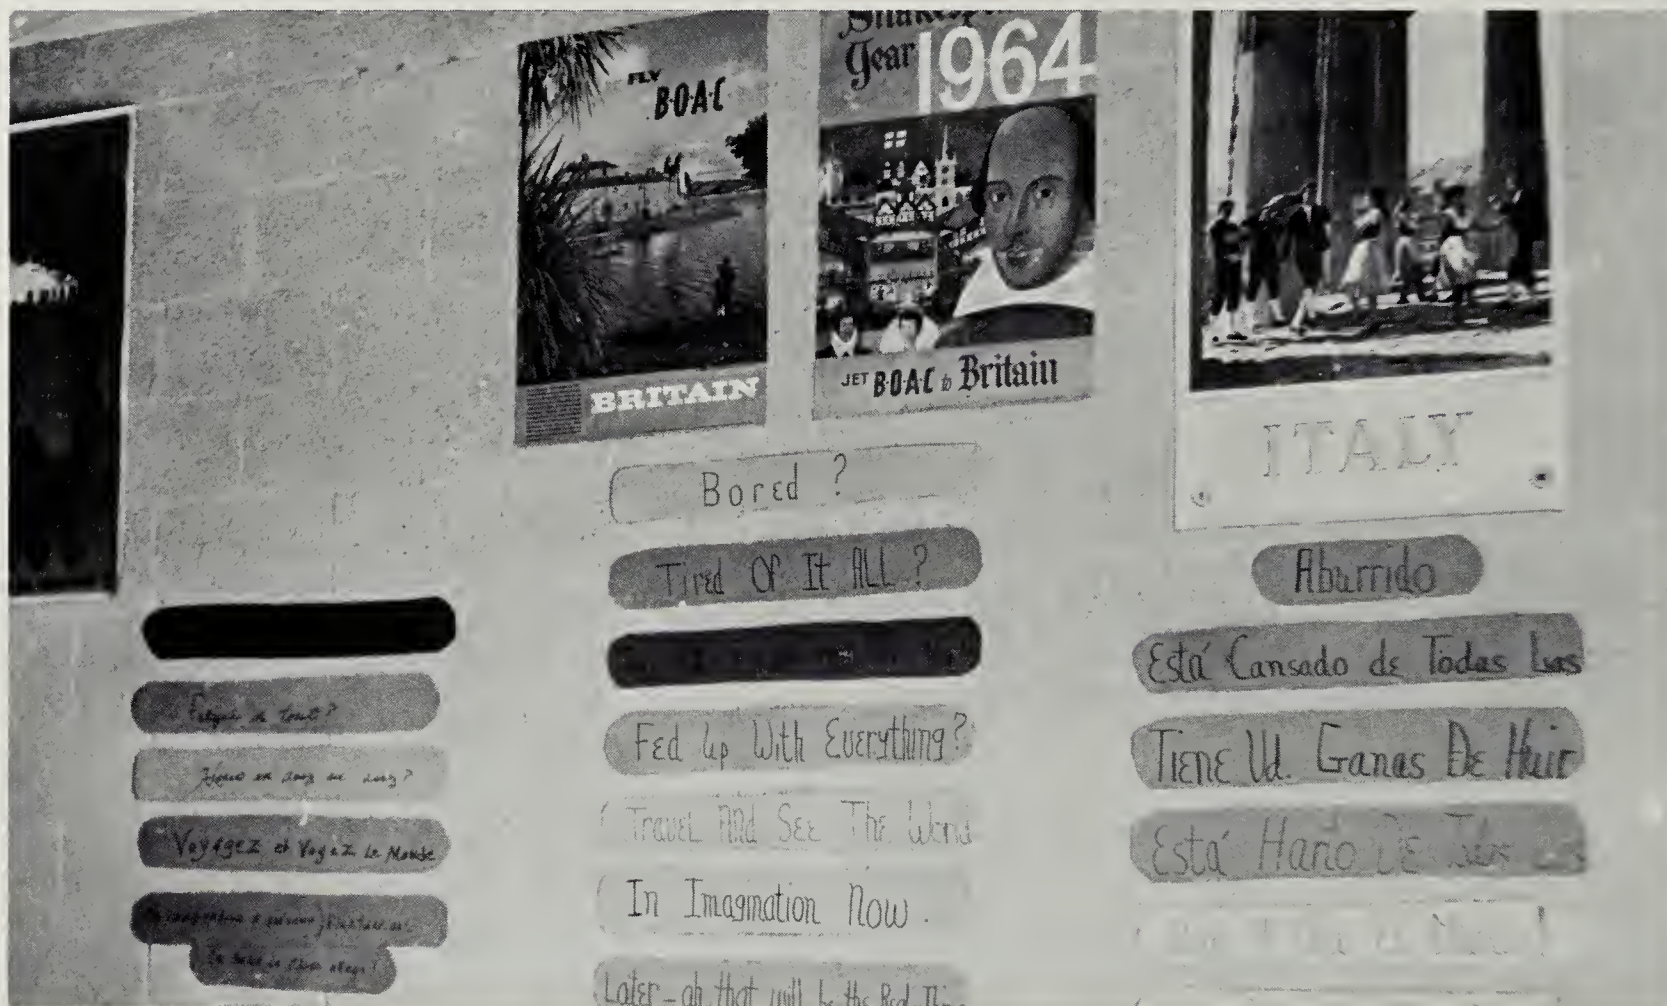

Several Concert Choir members represented H.C.H.S. at the annual All-State Chorus Convention.

Foreign Language Department Works

Many displays such as the one above were constructed by foreign language students during Language Week to encourage travel abroad and a deeper understanding of foreign countries.

Second year Latin students, Leigh Felton, Bill Owen, and Patty Tetlock, put first year Latin students through an initiation stunt during Language Week.

Together to Sponsor Language Week

French, Latin, and Spanish are the foreign languages offered to students by the Foreign Language Department.

Again this year all of the foreign language groups joined together to observe Language Week. By using bulletin board displays and radio and public address programs in the school, they promoted interest in foreign travel and affairs and also kindled enthusiasm among students for the language program. In addition they produced a play entitled "Triple Trouble" for all students taking a foreign language and for all pupils who planned to take a foreign language next year.

All three groups also published a newspaper written in their respective languages.

As a special feature to the "week," the groups had a banquet, which took place in the school cafeteria.

A big event for some Spanish students will be a trip to the International University in Mexico during July. One of the projects enjoyed by the French classes was their individual correspondence with students in France.

Girls Prepare for Future Responsibilities

In home economics classes, girls learned the fundamentals that will prepare them for their future responsibilities as homemakers.

After receiving classroom instructions, the girls are given an opportunity to apply their knowledge in the well-facilitated kitchens and sewing rooms. In addition to cooking and sewing, they learn how to select and care for clothes, repair electrical appliances, prepare a family budget, and care for the health of a family.

The Home Economics Department, with an enrollment of over 500 students, offers courses to students in grades eight through twelve.

Homemaking students serve the school in many ways outside the classroom. They serve at special meetings, banquets and teas, make costumes for plays, and work as nurses aides in the hospital.

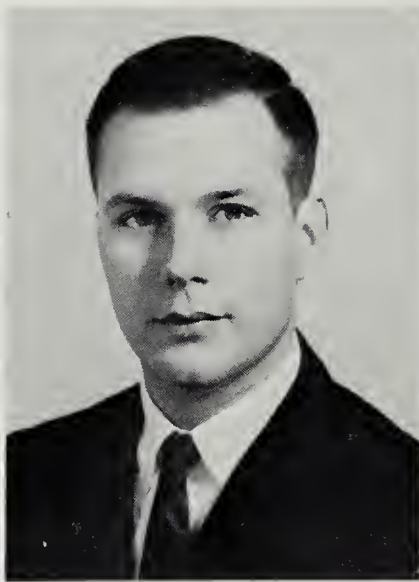

In addition to home economics, the department also offers a half-year course in sociology.

Listening, Speaking, Reading Make Up

Several innovations were introduced into the English Department this year.

For the first time, tenth and twelfth grade students attended a live performance of Shakespeare's Hamlet, which was presented in the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond. This venture proved an immense help in stimulating student interest in the works of Shakespeare.

Also, in Mr. William Owen's tenth grade English classes, students gained a better understanding of lyrical poetry by having a regular "hootenanny," complete with guitar, and singing various ballads.

This year the schools literary magazine, the Galaxy, published a fall and spring issue, which included short stories, poems, book reviews, and unusual themes. Although the Galaxy was new, the response from students, both those who contributed compositions and those who bought it, made the publication an immense success.

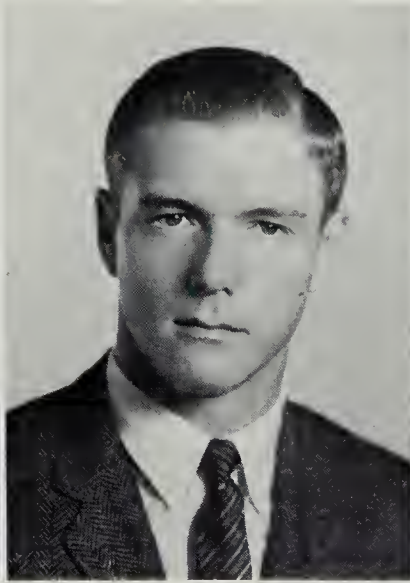

A 12J class, which was responsible for the publication of the HALISCOPE, was reinstituted in the curriculum.

Industrial Arts Offered to All Grades

The Industrial Arts Department offers a vast store of knowledge and valuable experience.

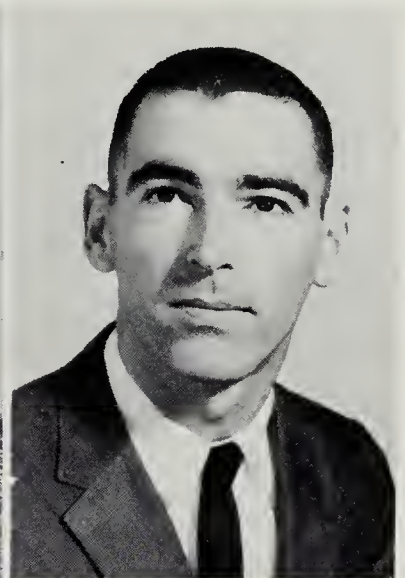

Industrial arts classes, which are offered to students in grades eight through twelve, instruct students in metal work, hand and machine woodworking, and electricity.

Making candle holders in metal work and footstools and chairs in woodwork were a part of the eighth and ninth grade programs. During the year some of the best projects were put on display at an open house.

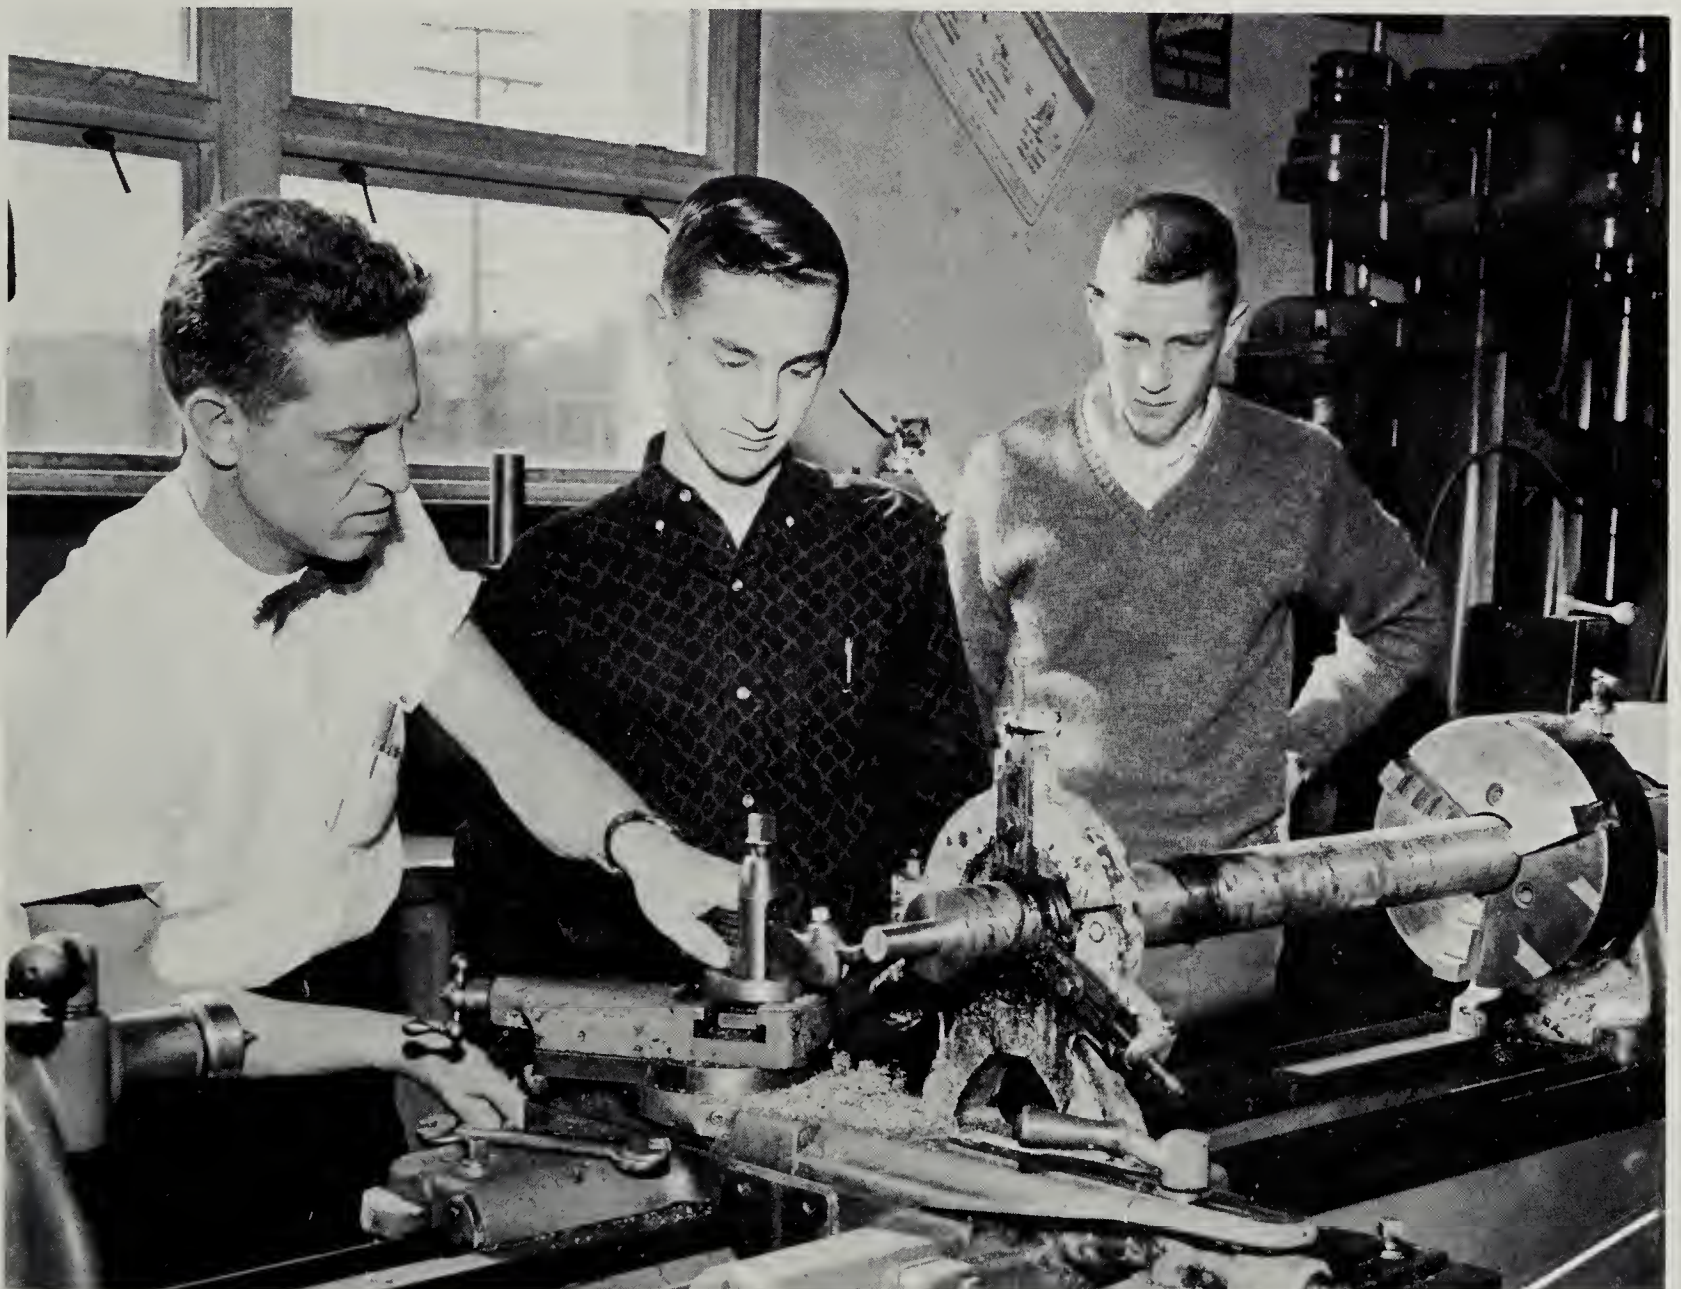

Also included in the Industrial Arts Department is a course in mechanical drawing. This tenth grade course teaches students to transfer their ideas onto paper in an orderly arrangement. Planning, sketching, designing, and preparing work plans are the basic fundamentals of mechanical drawing.

In these classes students tackle theorems and equations and are taught by new methods in basic mathematics.

In May, the annual Math Week took place in order to give students a view of the practical uses of math in everyday life. Bulletin boards and classroom displays designed by students were used to help promote the project.

The business math classes conducted a survey of stores to gather facts in reference to the number of employees and the checks cashed during a certain period. They later used this information for certain computations in their classroom work.

Physical Education Department Adds

Physical education, a class which is required for all students in grades eight, nine, and ten, teaches students the fundamentals of sports, dances, and exercises.

For the first time, due to the new tennis courts built from Booster Club funds, tennis became a part of the physical education curriculum.

Among other sports taught are volleyball, basketball, football, softball, soccer, and badminton. Students also learned the proper techniques of dancing, archery, and tumbling.

The Physical Education Department also offered a driver's training course to those students who had a learner's license and who had completed the classroom course of driver's education. In the behind-the-wheel driving course, a fee of $3.00 was charged, and the boys were able to receive a ten per cent deduction on their automobile insurance.

Science Fair Revealed Talented Students

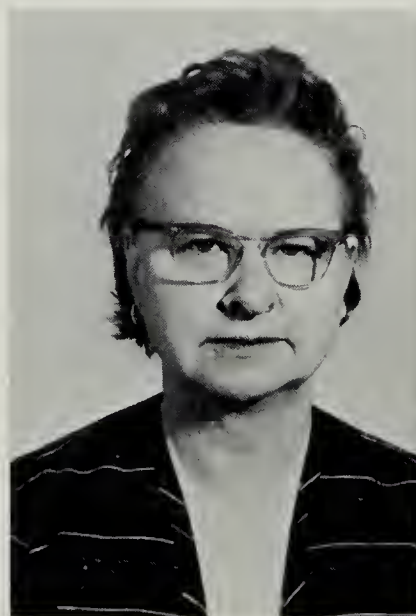

The aim of the Science Department was to advance the understanding of general science, biology, chemistry, and physics.

A new curriculum was instituted into the ninth grade science program this year. In order to stimulate more interest in these subjects in their junior and senior years, students were required to take one semester of physics and one of chemistry.

The Science Department received equipment to be used in the study of electrical physics from the National Defense Education Administration. The equipment helped to strengthen the laboratory phase of the physics program both on the ninth and twelfth grade level. The Annual Science Fair was a highlight of the department's work.

History Students Visit Historic Sites

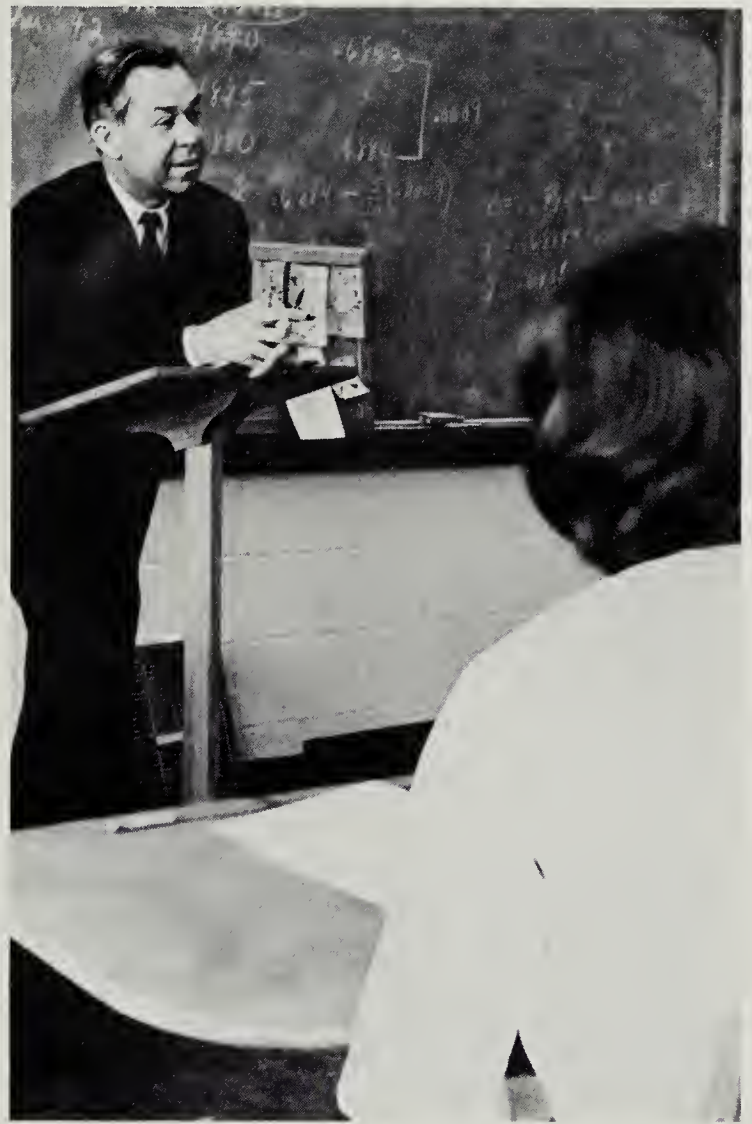

Courses offered by the Social Studies Department include geography, economics, world history and United States history and United States government.

A six weeks course in Communist ethics was continued as a required course in all government classes. This study, which was recommended by the State Board of Education, includes the use of three textbooks dealing with communism as compared to democracy.

The Quiz Kids, who had a regular Monday night program on radio station WHLF, completed the year with an undefeated record. Besides competing with other school teams, they also held contests with various civic clubs in the county.

Another project of the Social Studies Department which helped to create student interest was a bi-weekly bulletin board contest. The history students planned and constructed the displays, which were then judged by a committee of students and teachers. The winner of the contest received a trophy made by the Industrial Arts Department.

Eleventh grade U. S. history students also took trips to such historical sites as Williamsburg and Richmond. These trips enabled them to see a realistic picture of the history which they were studying.

Students in the Vocational Department

Three groups: the distributive education classes, the practical nursing classes, and the industrial cooperative training classes make up the Vocational Department.

Distributive education classes are designed to train young men and women for full time employment in a distributive occupation after graduation, either in retail, wholesale, or service establishments.

The industrial cooperative training program is for qualified juniors and seniors who want training in technical and medical occupations. The overall objective of this program is to train students for future employment in these fields.

Through cooperation with the Halifax Community Hospital, H.C.H.S. offers girls interested in practical nursing a seventeen month course enabling them to receive a practical nursing diploma.

During the year, students in the Vocational Department perform many services for the school and community.

Among their many jobs at a grocery store, Deon Yoncy and Mocan Feors aid customers by transferring purchased merchandise to their cars.

National Honor Society Taps 43 Students

Membership in the N.H.S. is one of the biggest honors given at H.C.H.S. The four requirements are scholarship, leadership, character, and service; all are needed for induction into the N.H.S. A student must have a 90 or above average in his classwork from the beginning of the ninth grade. Leadership and service are rated according to the way the student benefits the school by using his time and effort.

Many varied activities occupy the time of N.H.S. members. Stationary was sold to raise money for the scholarship which is given to one senior member of the honor society. In addition, marshals and ushers for graduation exercises are chosen from this group. At the closing of the school year, the juniors give a picnic for former and present members in the form of a reunion.

Honor Society Maintains High Standards

Membership in the National Junior Honor Society is the highest honor a student in the eighth, ninth, and tenth grade can receive.

Selection to this national organization is based upon scholarship, leadership, character, and service. After being inducted a student must maintain a 91 average in order to remain in the society.

During the year, Junior National Honor Society members serve as guides for the annual College Night program and in the spring they sponsor the seventh grade visitation day. The members also sell programs at all football games. An induction ceremony for new members takes place every March. The social highlight of the society is the annual Valentine's Day dance.

One of the major projects of the Junior Honor Society members is to act as guides on College Night. In the background Carol Eastwood, Barry Dunkley, Eddie Trope, and Bill Sizemore wait while Miss Sylvia West and Mrs. Freeda Akers register the Strayer Business College representatives.

Mr. Richard Fitz and Tom Earp display the Scholastic Press Award of the Virginia Press Association which the STAR won at S.I.P.A.

Quill and Scroll, an honor organization for top journalists, inducted fourteen new members this year. To become eligible for membership in Quill and Scroll, these initiates rated in the upper third of their class in scholastic standing, had done superior work for at least one semester in scholastic journalism, and were recommended by Mr. Richard J. Fitz, advisor of school publications. Only juniors and seniors are eligible for membership in this organization.

Some of these outstanding journalistic students attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention in New York in March where they learned how to better their publications.

Another meeting, the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention in Lexington, demanded the time of members in May. It was here that Tom Earp accepted for the STAR the Scholastic Press Award of the Virginia Press Association. The yearbook took a first place award in its group.

Thespian Troupe 1418 Promotes Dramatics

Outstanding students of the Dramatics Department become members of the Thespian Troupe, the group which promotes excellence in dramatics. In order for a student to be eligible for membership in the troupe, he must have a total of ten points, which are obtained by participating in at least two school productions. Points are awarded according to the size of the part.

During the school year the troupe co-sponsors two full-length plays. They also prepare a production to compete in the Western District One-Act Play Festival.

At the Awards Assembly in the spring, the outstanding boy and girl in the Thespian Troupe are presented gold cups for their dramatic achievements. This year the cups went to Sandra Carden and David Priest.

Math Week in May is the chief highlight of the activities of Mu Alpha Theta, a society whose purpose is to stimulate student interest in mathematics by honoring those who have met certain high standards. During this special week members display projects and posters in various places of the school.

Another activity of the society is the meeting in April after school at which new members are inducted into the group.

To become a member of Mu Alpha Theta, one must have an average of 90 or above on all subjects taken since entering high school. Two and a half years of mathematics is also required along with a math project. Teachers who have majored in mathematics in college are eligible also for membership.

The S.C.A. Sponsored Homecoming and Safety

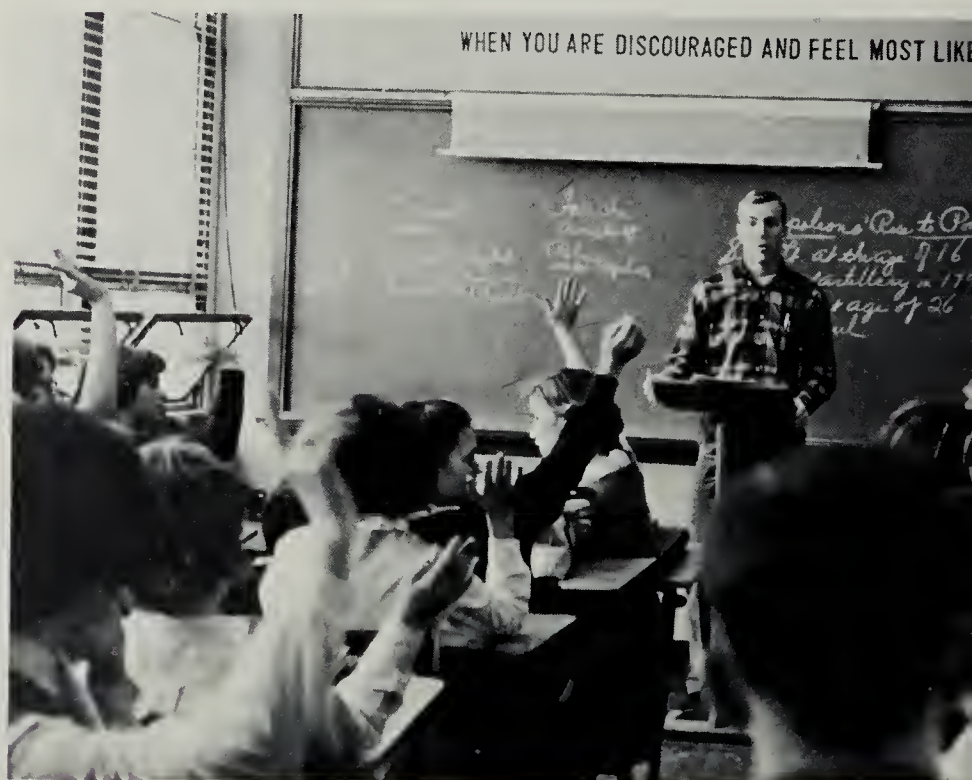

David Priest, treasurer

This year the S .C. A., or the Student Co-operative Association, did more than ever to serve the students and aid the faculty at H. C. H. S. One of its big services was the publication and distribution of handbooks to all students plus handbooks to be given to the next two incoming eighth grades. Another big step was the purchase of a grand piano. The piano was placed in a case in the auditorium to be used in assemblies. The S. C. A. also sponsored the most successful Christmas drive ever held at H. C. H. S. Students were quick to respond with toys, food, and clothing. Other activities, including the Homecoming parade and dance ,the Topsy-Turvy dance, the Spring Fair, Safety Week, all proved to be successful. Moreover, this year's S. C. A. was responsible for passing the most valuable honor system in the history of H. C. H. S. This was indeed a step forward.

H. C. H. S. was host to the District S. C. A. meeting which served to inform delegates more about the functions of the S. C. A. David Dunn, Tommy Thompson and Kay Greer also attended the State S. C. A. Convention in Richmond.

Haliscope Tries

As with the STAR, the HALISCOPE covers every area of school activity; the only difference is that the yearbook covers the whole year's activities in one glance. Filled with pictures, the annual provides a record of one's high school career.

Members of the staff of the HALISCOPE must have a year of journalism, although there are many jobs for non-journalism students. The publications advisor, Mr. R. J. Fitz selects all staff members and reporters. Most of the work is done during the winter, and the yearbook is published in late spring so that students receive their copies near the end of school. The cost of the HALISCOPE is $5.00, which may be paid in two installments of $2.50 each. No extra copies are ordered.

Staff members attend two press conventions and all work done on the annual counts points for membership in Quill and Scroll.

The Star

This year, due to three new features, the STAR was able to give students a more complete coverage of school activities. For the first time since the school began, the publication came out on a Friday, providing a means of reminding students of the many activities coming up over the weekend. In addition, the STAR had two student photographers who were able to get candid shots of students as they were actually making news. The paper also used the offset method of printing, rather than letterpress.

Besides the regular news items, the STAR has editorials discussing the pros and cons of school issues, a "Letter-to-the-editor" section in which the students express their opinions, feature stories on outstanding students, and the "Star-lighters," which accent H. C. H. S. humor. Also during the year, complete coverage is given to all sports events with play-by-play action of each game.

The STAR, which is issued bi-weekly, sixteen times a year, is published by students who have had one year of journalism and who have been approved by the advisor.

Magazine Gets Name, Publishes Twice

Work on Halifax County High School's first literary magazine began early in the fall. Keeping with the school's tradition of using the names of celestial bodies, the magazine was named Galaxy. The Galaxy, a publication for student and teacher creative writing, was published in January. Response to the first issue was tremendous with every copy distributed.

Articles for consideration were submitted to the Galaxy staff. They selected the best and most interesting pieces for publication in the magazine and tried to represent each grade in their selection. Teachers were also invited to submit their writing for consideration by the staff. The articles, short stories, poems, essays, and book reviews covered a variety of subjects. Some were to be read for enjoyment, others were thought-provoking.

Highlights of the first issue were the Japanese Haiku poetry, a poem in blank verse by an English teacher, several book reviews, and an allegory on youth.

Using the first issue as a guide, plus the response of the student body, plans for a larger and better second issue were made. To give a more finished appearance to the Galaxy, the staff planned a printed cover for the second issue. Cover designs were submitted and voted on by the staff members. Appropriate illustrations accompanied some of the articles.

The second issue contained more material than the first, especially in the area of short stories. In addition to the usual material, a movie review of Tom Jones was added to go along with the review of the book. Both reviews were written by teachers from the English Department. Also included were some sonnets, a short story, poems, an essay on individualism, a review of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", and a humorous allegory on teachers.

After a triumphant entrance, the Galaxy shows promise of taking its place among the publications of Halifax County High School.

Stanford, Bill Sizemore, Patricia McDowell, Anne Robbins, Betty Sue Gupton, and Anne Pointer.

Editors and advisor go over material as the final deadline nears. They are Nancy Moore, Jerry Talbott, Dick Sizemore, Mr. William Young, and Anne Pointer.

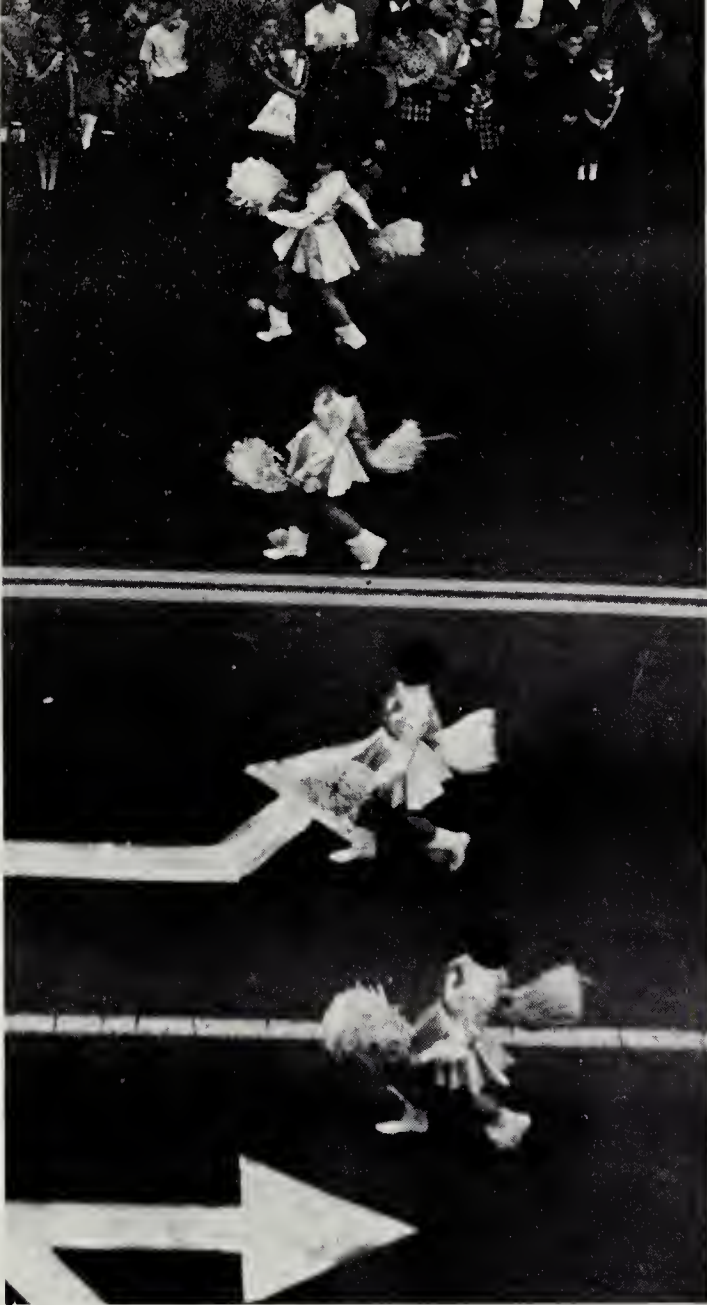

Mae Atkins, magazine staff member, sells one of the first copies to Buddy Peace.

Judy Leach is the editor-in-chief of the Galaxy.

Sold Soap and Doughnuts for Trips

Comettes march in the Homecoming Parade.

Three bands make up the instrumental music department of Halifax County High School; the Beginner's Band, Cadet Band, and Concert-Marching Band. Any eighth grade student who has an instrument is eligible to enroll in the beginner class where he will learn to play his instrument as well as basic music fundamentals.

Students who have passed Beginner Band but are not advanced enough for the Concert Band take Cadet Band, and learn to march. Membership in the advanced Concert-Marching Band is based on individual try-outs. This group performs at all home football games, takes trips, and gives concerts.

To raise money for a trip to Myrtle Beach and for new instruments, the Concert-Marching Band and Comettes sold soap and doughnuts. With the money from these campaigns, a fiberglass tuba, contra-bass clarinet and several other instruments were purchased. Other trips included concerts given at various elementary schools to encourage those students to join the band.

The Comet Pep Band plays at all home basketball games.

Cadet Band members are (first row) Steve Moore, Paul Greenwood, Glenn Younger, (second row) Danny Martin, Sammy Nichols, Mary Betterton, David Cumbie, (third row) Scott Hill, Ann Gathings, Vera Link, Vicki Buckner, and (drums) Howard King.

David Harmon, the drum major, plays the new contra-bass clarinet.

David Priest is the "cornet man" of the Marching Band.

Beginner Bands Study Music Techniques

Linda Ramey, head majorette, and Emily Epperson play the saxophone.

The Choir had many varied activities throughout the school year. Early they began work on the Christmas Concert that took place on December 15, 1963 and after Christmas the choir worked diligently on the Spring Concert for May 17, 1964, along with concerts for elementary schools, churches, and civic clubs.

Mr. Jimmy Tussey, director, selected a group of sixteen students to sing for small groups and banquets. In February the Choir was represented by eight of its members at the All-State Chorus held at Dan River High School in Danville.

The Choir sang "The Holy City" accompanied by the band for the Easter Assembly, and among the best known selections for the Spring Concert were the choral selections from "Porgy and Bess" and "South Pacific."

To raise money for decorations for the spring Concert, the Choir sold candy. The last social event was a dance on May 22, 1964, and the group ended its year's work by singing several selections at all the graduation programs.

"Safety" is Theme of Bus Driver's Club

Safety is the most important thing to the members of the Bus Driver's Club, for every member in order to be in this club has to have a perfect safety record.

There are twenty-seven members in the club including the officers which are President, Frank Williams; vice-president, Riley Hart; secretary-treasurer, Linda Lewis; sergeant-at-arms, Charlie Tate; and reporter, John Thomas.

"This has been the best group of drivers that has ever been over here," stated Mr. William Lowe, supervisor of the buses for the school. President Frank Williams feels that being a bus driver helps a person mature more fully because of the responsibility placed upon the driver, the responsibility of keeping his schedule and, even more important, the responsibility of the lives of the students that ride his school bus daily.

Frank Williams, President of the Bus Driver's Club, prepares to leave on his daily school bus route.

Library Club Members Received Credits

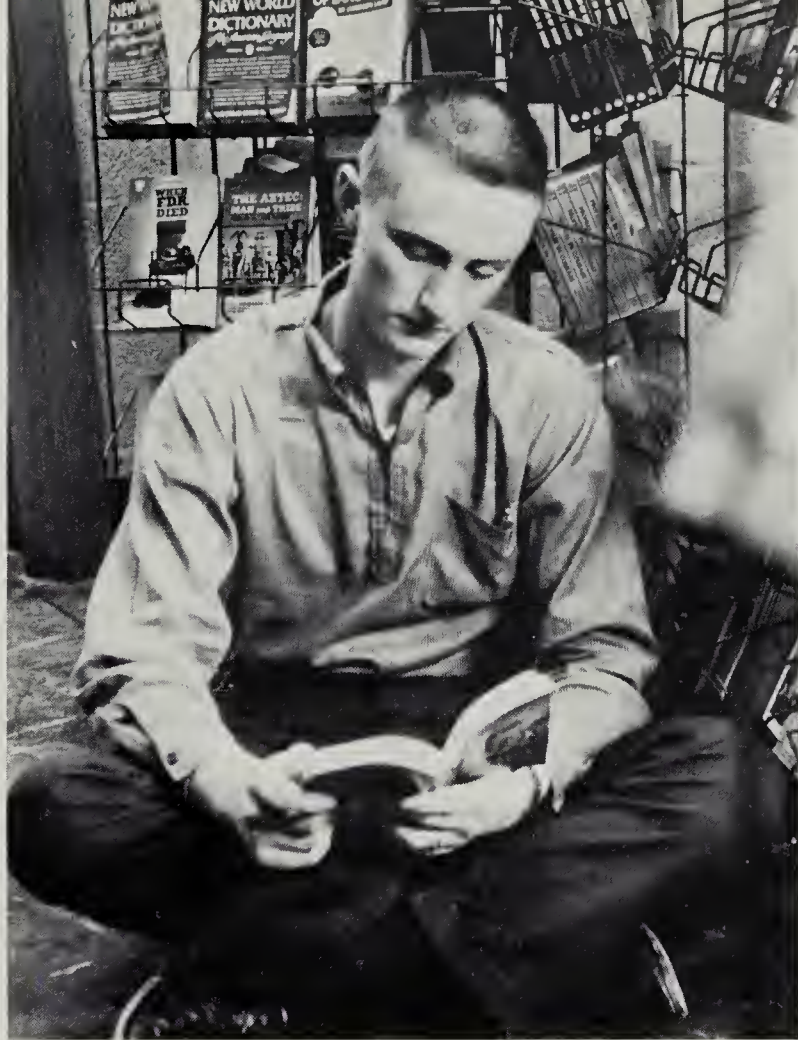

Miss Frances Woltz, head librarian, checks out some books for members of an English class.

The Library Club, sponsored by Miss Frances Woltz, assisted by Mrs. Pattye Hicks, is a working class as well as an organization to promote student interest in the library. Members received a half credit for their work and attended ten-minute instruction classes every two weeks.

During the year library assistants performed varied jobs, some of which were checking books in and out, shelving books and films, and typing catalogue cards. Members changed jobs or positions every six weeks. In April the Library Club sponsored a panel discussion on "How to Create Interest In Library Clubs" at the meeting of the student library assistants of District E.

The Projectionists Club is responsible for setting up and operating all audio-visual equipment under the direction of Mr. William Satterfield. This year the club purchased jackets and much new equipment consisting of projectors and screens.

Of the 2200 film showings in 1963-64, all were shown by members of the Projectionists Club who gave up their study hall to serve the school without any material reward.

Steve McBride finds that the best way to select a paperback book from the library is to sit down and read a few pages.

Latin Club Participates in Language Week

Yvonne Lester pins Billy Covington's Language Week "Torch of Learning" pin on his toga.

Instead of observing Latin Week this year, the Latin Club members participated with the French and Spanish Clubs in Language Week. The Highlight of the week was a banquet attended by most of the club members. The club also published a Latin newspaper during this special week for foreign language students. The initiation of Latin I students by second year members was also carried out during this week. The Latin II members were the masters and their slaves were first year students. During this week members dressed in costumes that signified various events and characters in Roman mythology.

Other activities of the Latin Club were the sponsoring of a float in the Homecoming parade and a picnic which took place in the spring.

Harold Fackler and Bob Pulliam help Miss Frances Howard with one of the French Club's new study aids.

French is a two year course offered to eleventh and twelfth grade students. Since only two years are offered, it has been necessary to teach reading and writing much earlier than is done in a four year course. Tapes and records, obtained through the National Defense Education Act, are used as well as textbooks and library facilities.

Anyone taking French becomes a member of the French Club. In the clubwork, members hear talks from people who have visited France or who have studied the language. They also sing and talk in French.

The Club is proud of its growth. Last year there were 66 enrolled in the club. This year there are 112. The highlights of the year are the Christmas party and program, the French newspaper, the French Honor Society, and Language Week. Each year the language clubs combine to plan and prepare for Language Week. A theme is chosen and work is immediately begun on displays which are placed throughout the school.

A banquet is prepared for the language students and their guests. At the banquet, all three language groups have the grace and extend a welcome in their language. Folk songs are sung and skits are given. It is there also that new members are taken into the French Honor Society. These students are honored for high grades, character, and service.

Members of French Club are (first row) B. Henderson, J. Davis, D. Burton, C. Carroll, A. Robbins, L. Stillman, J. Wagstaff, B. Howerton, J. Whitehead, B. Bradley, (second row) P. Gordon, K. Spanish Club Sponsors Mexico Trip

The Spanish Club is composed of approximately eighty-five members. In previous years the club has been known mostly for its social functions, but this year the club took major interests in the cultural aspect of Spain and the Spanish language. Even though the club has several socials yearly, its main purpose is to promote better student understanding of the people and of the language of Spain.

Activities in the club include entering floats in the Homecoming parade, and in the Christmas parade in Halifax. Holding special night meetings with films and guest speakers from Spanish speaking countries have been added to the agenda. This summer the club will help sponsor seventeen students who will study at the International University in Mexico.

To be eligible for membership, students must have had at least one-half semester of Spanish with a "C" average or higher.

Any student taking a science course is eligible for membership in the Science Club. Meeting three times a year, the organization takes a trip and participates in the annual Science Fair. Mr. Carl Burke, head of the Science Department, is the club's advisor.

Activities of this year included hearing guest speakers on careers in science, taking a trip to the Carolina Biological Supply in Burlington, N. C., and exhibiting projects at the April Science Fair. To promote interest in science, a science program was presented at C. H. Friend Elementary School in South Boston and at Scottsburg Elementary School.

F.T.A. Members Did Student Teaching

The Future Teachers of America is an organization that strives to promote interest in teaching to high school students.

One week of school each year is devoted to student teaching. During this week students teach in one of their classes while the teacher observes. The student teachers not only carry out the classroom discussions, but also give the homework assignments and tests. Organization members also display bulletin boards and observe teaching methods in neighboring elementary schools during Teacher Career Month.

On October 3, F. T. A. representatives journeyed to Richmond to an F. T. A. convention. In November, members of the Future Teachers of America joined with the Student Cooperative Association in honoring faculty members.

For a preview of the teaching profession, fifteen members of the F. T. A. went to Longwood College on High School Day for a tour of the campus and college and a visit to the classes.

Mr. Frank Chaffin, director of instruction, conducted a program on "Aims for Excellence" for F. T. A. members, and teachers led a forum on "Why I Chose the Teaching Profession."

In April F. T. A. members served at the Delta Kappa Gamma birthday luncheon.

The president of the F. T. A., Anne Robbins, attended the spring banquet of the Halifax Education Association to represent the Future Teachers of America from Halifax County High School.

As a money-making project, F. T. A. members sold toothbrushes. Profits will be added to the treasury for later use.

F.T.A. members are (first row) L. Osbarne, A. Jones, A. Robbins, V. Davis, C. Carroll, N. Porter, M. Wall, (second row) J. Fralin, S. Hutchison, D. Prevette, P. Jones, M. Wilkins, P. Francis, B. F.B.L.A. Wins Honors at State Convention

F.B. L. A., which stands for Future Business Leaders of America, is an organization to promote student interest, participation, and understandings in the business world. The fifty members which made up the 1963-64 club were under the guidance of their sponsor, Miss Sylvia West and co-sponsor Miss Frances Aiken.

Officers of the year were Amelia Matthews, president; Margaret Murphy, vice-president; Marjorie Power, secretary; Janis Gravitt, reporter; Jean Keatts, historian; Elizabeth King, treasurer; and Marlene Wilson, parliamentarian.

The only requirement for membership in the club is that one must be taking or have taken at least two business subjects. During the year the club had four meetings at which they planned projects and discussed business practices. At one meeting a representative from the FBI spoke to the club.

The members participated in many activities during the year. In October, members entered a float in the Homecoming parade and in the spring the club held its annual banquet in the school cafeteria to install new officers. To strengthen its treasury the club sold candy and in May a party was held for all of the members.

F.B.L.A. members often serve as student secretaries for different departments. Hope Puliam, Margaret Young, and Helen Irby prepare to mimeograph some material.

Mr. M. L. Landrum, regional advisor for the F.B.L.A., honors Amelia Mathews with the title, Miss F.B.L.A.

Art Club Displays Paintings in Lobby

To teach students more about art and to stimulate the development of art in the school is what the Art Club works for. The members, while furthering their own ability, bring to the students and people of the community a better understanding of culture in the form of painting, sculpturing, and sketching.

The Art Club contributes a lot to H. C. H. S. as well as to the community. Most of the bulletin board displays throughout the school are made by art students and quite often students with art ability are called on to assist clubs and other school organizations.

Funds, a very necessary part of any organization, were raised in many varied ways. The Art Club has sponsored a sidewalk art sale, an art contest and a picnic is planned for the future. This year the Art Club will sponsor an art exhibit for the Student Cooperative Association Spring Fair. A room will be filled with paintings and sculpturing and will give the effects of a museum. All of the money raised will go into the club's treasury to be used as the members see fit.

One of the greatest honors ever bestowed upon the fairly new Art Club was having the winning float in the Homecoming festivities of 1963. The float depicted a Japanese floral garden with a small gazebo, a quaint bridge, and many beautiful flowers made from tissues.

Sculpturing, also covered in art, is mastered by Sarah Loftis.

D.E. Club Offers Varied Services to Aid

The D. E. Club is set up to provide students enrolled in distributive education classes with professional organization and training. The club provided such services for the school as running the school store, operating the lost and found department, and setting up the hall monitoring system.

At the district contest in Altavista, Sharon Buchanon placed second in sales demonstrations, Linda Francis placed third in advertising, and Sandra Powell placed third in public speaking. The D. E. Club also received the District Honor Club trophy.

D. E. Week was held April 27-May 2. During this week the members attended an Employer-Employee Banquet. Mr. Sumpter Priddy, executive vice-president of the Virginia Retail Merchants Association, was the main speaker. Special radio programs on the local station that week featured the D. E. Department and club.

F.H.A. Members Carry Out Year's Theme,

To carry out this year's theme, "Marriage Calls for Preparation", each F. H. A. officer chose a related subtopic on which she gave a program at one of the monthly meetings, and Mr. George Bowman, minister of the Faith Baptist Church, spoke to the group on some of the preparations for marriage. The members won first place on their exhibit pertaining to this topic at the Halifax County Fair.

The annual F. H. A. — F. F. A. Valentine Dance on February 13, at which Marjorie Powers reigned as queen, highlighted this year's social calendar. Another important social event was the Mother-Daughter Banquet on April 9 which climaxed F. H. A. Week. During F. H. A. Week, April 6 to April 10, F. H. A. members decorated the various bulletin boards throughout the school with displays pertaining to this year's theme.

Father-Son Banquet Highlight of Year

Composed of 181 members, the local branch of the Future Farmers of America has won recognition for its achievements both on the state and national levels.

The crop judging team, made up of James Vernon, Cecil Lacks, Robert Ford, and Danny Stevens, placed first in the state. Along with Mr. Worth Hudson, agriculture teacher, this team attended the national convention of F. F. A. in Kansas City.

Harry Watts placed seventh in the state in forestry judging. For winning first place in public relations, the F. F. A. received $200 and an appearance on a television show in Roanoke.

As the highlight of the year's activities, the chapter gave the eleventh annual Father-Son Banquet on February 21 for all members and their fathers.

The local chapter released many radio programs over station WHLF, South Boston, on which they presented talks about farm safety, firearm safety, and other related subjects. Chapter members help improve the school each year by planting various plots of flowers and trees and by participating in Clean-up Week.

A state convention committee awarded the local chapter a superior rating which made it one of the best in the state. It was also commended for its excellent safety record by Bill Rickson, director of the Youth Act of Southern States Cooperation on behalf of the Virginia Rural Safety Council.

As one of the chapter's forestry projects, members planted 45,000 pine seedlings throughout Halifax County. Another project was the co-sponsorship of the Baby Beef Show at which livestock raised by members was exhibited.

Jimmy Anderson, Robert Ford, Mr. Glenn Howell, Mr. J. R. Cardwell, and Charles Snead prepare to go "on the air" as they present a television program in Roanoke

Exciting 'Down-to-the-Wire' Games

In the football season, the Comets managed to stage two big upsets as they defeated strong teams from Roxboro and Jefferson Senior. The Blues almost upset the top-seeded team in the Western District, William Fleming, but the Colonels managed to squeak out a 14-13 victory in Victory Stadium in Roanoke.

It was a rather short season but a very exciting one with some very close games with Roxboro, Jefferson Senior, Lexington, William Fleming, and Northern Durham. The Comets showed great determination all year and proved to be a great come-from-behind team. One player who was particularly effective in these efforts was Mike Piechota. He was one of the leading scorers in the state and gained over 1,000 yards for the Comets.

Ronnie Rose and Mike Piechota made the first-team All-Western District, while Richard Ragans made the second team, and Kenny Morningstar, honorable mention. At the All-Sports Banquet in the spring, Ronnie Rose was named the team's best blocker and Kenny Morningstar, the best tackler.

Enthusiasm was high as the Blue Comets fought their way into basketball with a victory over Andrew Lewis High. Fans began pouring out to see the team and its new coach Dave Wiedeman play a new kind of basketball. Hopes of a winning year were cropping up everywhere.

The Comets were playing better ball than they had in three years. Ball handling was good and much faster than usual and there was more team work and less individual play.

Hopes of a winning season became dim, however, when the Comets began losing to G.W., William Fleming, Andrew Lewis, Patrick Henry, and E. C. Glass. After a three game losing streak, the Comets had their last opportunity to go to the district tournament when they tied Patrick Henry for fourth place in the district. The Comets lost in the play-off, 66-46.

Ricky Harrell, who made second team All-Western District, was high scorer for the year with 211 points, an average of 11.1 per game.

Cheerleaders Spur Teams on to Victory

Something new was added to cheerleading this year, a freshman squad. This newly formed squad consists of twelve eighth grade girls, while the junior varsity squad consists of freshmen and sophomores, and the varsity squad is made up of juniors and seniors.

All cheerleaders are chosen each year by a committee of students and teachers who judge them on jump, co-ordination, voice, appearance, smile, personality, and attitude. Their main duties are to advertise the games by placing posters and banners throughout the school and local stores and to encourage the players and create an attitude of enthusiasm and school spirit at the games and pep rallies.

This year five varsity cheerleaders represented H.C.H.S. at the national cheerleaders convention at Virginia Beach where they won a second place and a third place in state competition.

"We won!" shouts Cheryl Swaim as she cheers the J. V.'s victory.

"Get that rebound!" pleads Carol Cramer during a foul shot.

Hope, a typical characteristic of cheerleaders, is displayed here by Mary Armi Hodges.

Corbin Crews gives a cheer for the Comets.

Varsity cheerleaders encourage the Comets through songs.

Mary Armi Hodges leads cheers before the varsity basketball game.

Varsity cheerleaders have a rough time making a pyramid for their picture in the Homecoming program.

row) Mary Archer Booker, Robin Owen, Vicki Covington, Mary Jane Roark, and Janet Thaxton.

Richard Mullis leads the Comets to a sweep in the mile run on G. W.'s track.

Sophomore Bray Cockerill attempts a long pass in an intramural game.

This was the year that was for seniors: wondering if they would ever get a chance to march in assemblies and sit in the senior section down front . . . wishing that Shakespeare and Milton had never been born . . . showing off senior rings . . . showing off engagement rings and some marriage certificates . . . flunking Mr. Crews's government tests . . . ordering invitations and calling cards . . . voting for the yearbook dedication . . . enjoying school work more than they would admit . . . counting the days to June 4 . . . trying to be dignified . . . looking for senior privileges . . . graduating, thank goodness.

Seniors

Sandra Carden won the cup for the most outstanding senior girl in dramatics.

Seniors receive their school ring early in September.

Discussing their class assembly, "Frankie and Johnnie," the Senior Class Officers are Donnie Schmidt, president; Kitt Campbell, vice-president; Connie Whitlow, secretary;

Sandra Carden, treasurer; Mae Atkins, reporter; and Leroy Coates, sergeant-at-arms.

Class of 1964 Looks to Future for

Two hundred and eighty-five graduates on June 4 marched out of the auditorium of Halifax County High School. As they marched down the aisle, they remembered many happy and sad memories of their senior year.

They remembered the hectic process of graduation and the day invitations arrived. They remembered trying on graduation robes for size and receiving class rings. They remembered the mass confusion in the halls between classes and the government and trig classes that were taken.

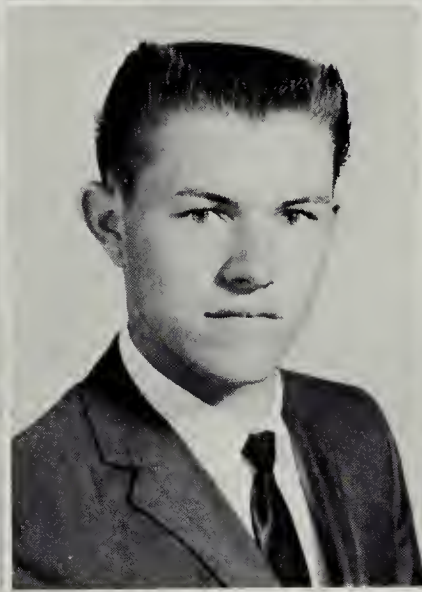

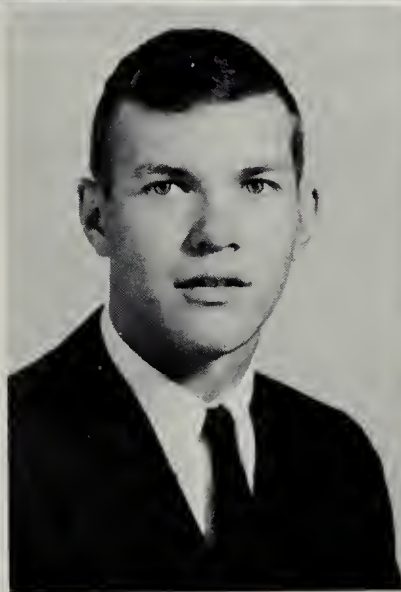

Many remembered the football and basketball games with a sign for defeat and a smile for victory. All remembered the after-game dances and the madness of the Beatle craze.

They remembered selecting "Who's Who" and sweating through college boards. They remembered P.A. announcements and "Frankie and Johnnie" their class assembly. They remembered the gaiety of "Under the Sea", the Topsy Turvy Dance, and the splendor of "Paris in the Spring" their Junior-Senior Prom. They remembered the '64 Junior-Senior Prom, "Stairway to the Stars," as it was presented to them by the Class of '65.

They remembered the excitement of Class Night and the dedication of this HALISCOPE. They remembered the presentation of the class gift and their Last Will and Testament. They remembered the acquaintances of their old friends and the many happy times they had spent together.

These were a few of the memories that shall never be forgotten by the Senior Class of 1964 as they looked to the future for the fulfillment of their hopes and dreams.

Seniors Russell Lindley, Carol Bradshaw, Rupert Chandler, Lawson Stillman, Carolyn Glass, and John Whitehead represented the Senior Class at Boys' and Girls' State.

High School

Russell Lindley gives his senior homeroom teacher, Mr. Bill Gilgo, an apple during Teacher Appreciation Week.

As graduation time nears, Seniors in their caps and gowns look hopefully toward the future.

This was the year that was for underclassmen: wondering just who the seniors thought they were . . . sneaking into the senior booths in the cafeteria . . . studying and studying and studying and then flunking sometimes but passing most of the time . . . working on algebra in science class when the teacher wasn't looking . . . decorating for the Junior-Senior Prom and hoping that the reflector wouldn't fall . . . talking to friends in the hall . . . being amazed that teachers and administrators knew so much and so little . . . going to the Guidance Department . . . practicing for assemblies . . . electing class officers . . . wishing for snow.

Underclassmen

The Beatles were even in lockers in 1963-'64.

Nancy Hagood hurries to Mr. Richard Fitz's English class.

One of the hardest jobs of the Junior Class officers is to co-ordinate the plans for the Junior-Senior Prom. The officers are Phyllis DeJarnette, reporter; Koren Dyer, vice-president; Doris Talley, secretary; Bruce Brown, president; and "Buddy" Peoce, sergeant-at-arms.

Junior Year Is Important One at H.C.H.S.

As upper-classmen for the first time, juniors started this school year of 1963-'64 full of anticipation and excitement. Through study and hard work in their classrooms the eleventh-graders felt the burdens of advanced studies required in preparation for their senior year. Thirty-three juniors, the largest number ever chosen, were inducted into the National Honor Society while seven were taken into the Douglas Southall Freeman Chapter of Quill and Scroll.

One of the big events of the year for the Class of 1965 was the trip to Williamsburg. In November two buses of American history students toured this historical site.

In preparation for the Junior-Senior Prom, the social highlight of the year, juniors began early to make plans and raise money. Money-making projects included sponsoring a dance after a ballgame and sponsoring the fall production "Lock Stock, and Lipstick." They also sold candy as a source of profit.

A revival of a past tradition was the Junior Class presentation of a "powder-puff" football game on the school football field. It was complete with female players, male cheerleaders and a male "Homecoming Queen."

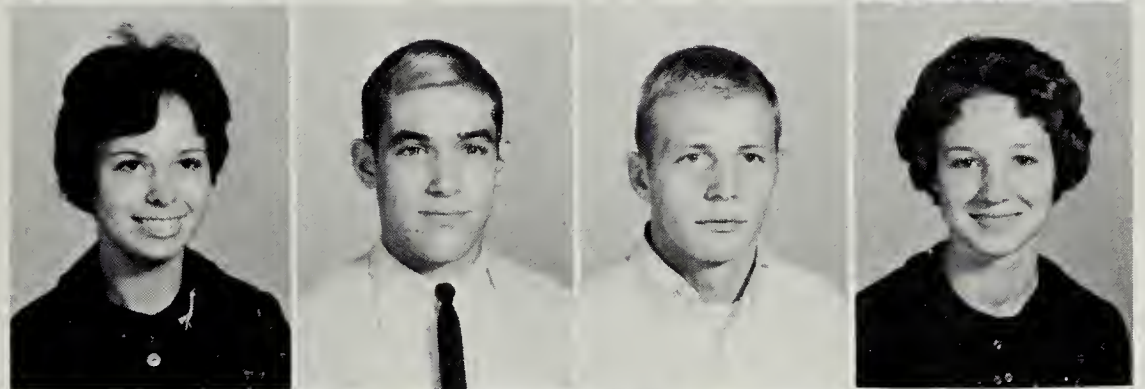

In the spring the eleventh graders began working towards the future with the Merit Scholarship tests and College Boards. They ended their year with one of the most beautiful Junior-Senior Proms ever given here. On May 1 the gym no longer was a gym but a true "Stairway to the Stars."

Graduation on June 4 brought mixed emotions for the Junior Class. They were sad to see so many of their senior friends go, but they were happy to move up a class year and say with pride, "Now we're seniors."

in Spring in Preparation for College

Juniors Hop Meeler and Jack Hall interview a recruiting officer representing the Air Force on College Night.

tary; Billy Kilgore, treasurer; Jimmy Jennings, reporter; and Melvin Cliborne, sergeant-at-arms.

Sophomore Activities Have Wide Range

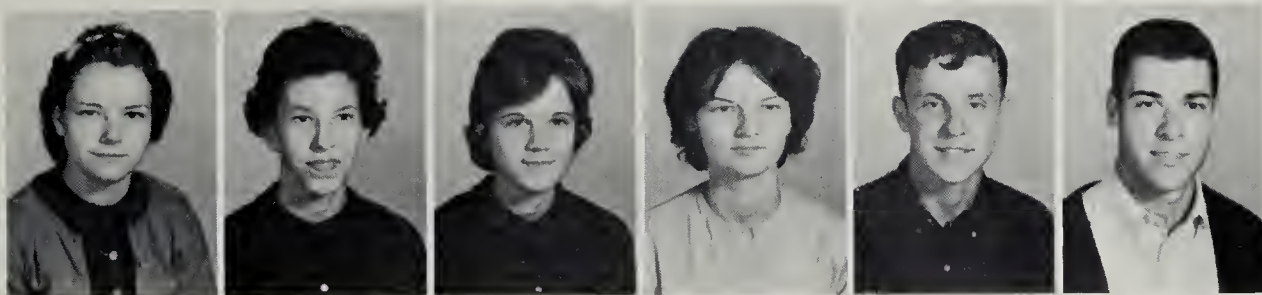

Two sophomore girls wait backstage before going on stage at the Sophomore Assembly, "Love Through the Ages."

This was the year that was an important one for members of the Sophomore Class because they reached the midpoint of their high school life and thus began to take an active part in many H. C. H. S. activities. Sophomores could be found on all the sports fields. In addition they worked on the S. C. A. projects and wrote for the school paper. Two of them even attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention in New York City.

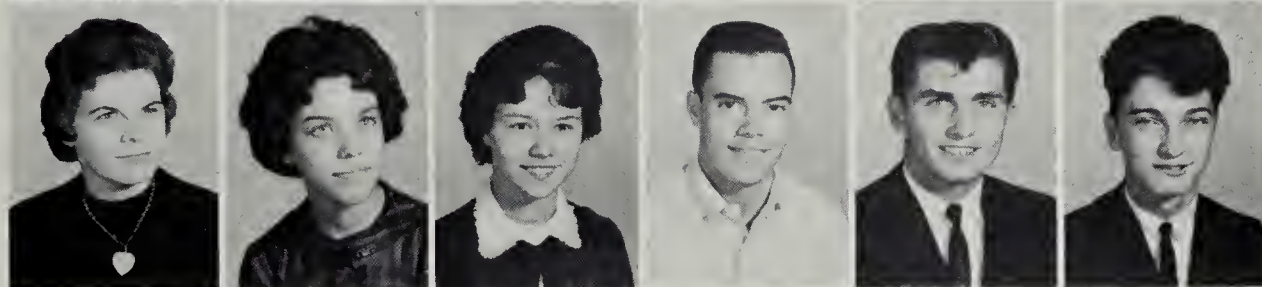

And they worked together as a real unified class as they sold towel calendars to build their treasury so they could have a Junior-Senior Prom next year second to none.

The class assembly, "Love Through the Ages," was a memorable one for it produced "The Roaches," H. C. H. S.'s answer to "The Beatles." After a successful debut in the assembly, this singing group went on to appear at many school banquets and on the radio.

The sophomores made themselves known during 1963-'64.

Members of the Freshman Class Had a School life takes an important step when students reach the ninth grade. Freshmen become more involved in extra-curricular activities such as joining clubs, going out for the junior varsity sports, trying out for plays, and taking part in various other phases of Halifax County High School.

To build up their treasury for their Junior-Senior Prom in 1966, the class sponsored a dance after one of the basketball games. Taking advantage of the Hootenanny craze that was sweeping the country, the freshmen used folk singing as the major theme of their assembly.

Scholarship was of paramount concern to members of the Freshman Class. They participated in accelerated programs in English, math, science, and foreign languages. The work done in these classes resulted in twenty-three students being asked to join the National Junior Honor Society, the highest honor that can come to an underclassman.

So that was the year that was in the Freshman Class, a year to be cherished.

Eighth grade officers are Jack Crews, president; Skip Seabolt, vice-president; Carol Trope, secretary; Phyllis Watts, treasurer; Ronnie Pate, sergeant-at-arms; and Terry Pulliam, reporter.

Eighth Grade Comes from Nine Schools

Jackie Cole and Skip Seabolt work on their academic studies, which are important to eighth grade students.

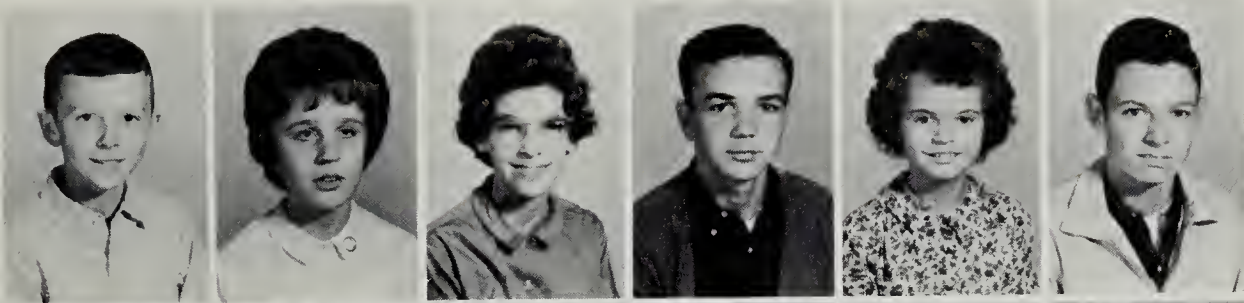

Entering H. C. H. S. for the first time, eighth grade students found a whole new world to which they had to adjust themselves. The newcomers from the nine elementary schools spent their first year taking a general course of high school study and learning to solve the problems of a class.

They began their high school career with hard work and an interest in school activities. This year's eighth grade boys were the first to participate on basketball and football teams designed for the underclassmen.

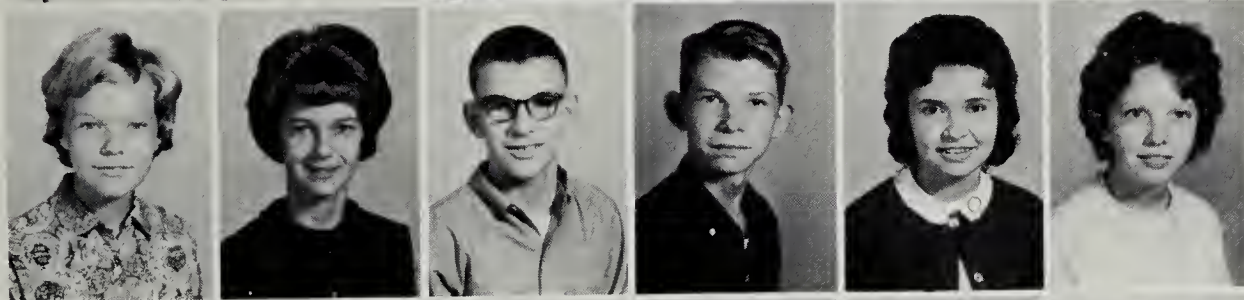

To help finance the Junior-Senior Prom for '67, the class sponsored a dance following a home game. They also sponsored an assembly in April featuring a satirical takeoff on the Jackie Gleason Show.

Throughout the year, the class participated in SCA meetings and activities, learning to take an interest in school projects. Under the leadership of Skip Seabolt and Jack Crews, profit from SCA Concessions sold at games skyrocketed to an all time high.

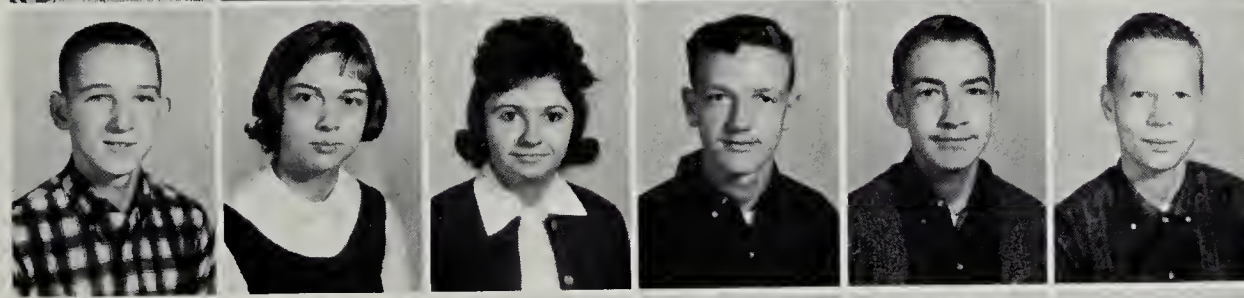

The talent and service contributed by this year's eighth grade has helped to make H. C. H. S. a better school.
